New Recall Move in San Bruno

A recall election appears imminent in San Bruno, even though initial examination by City Clerk Carl Hultberg revealed original petitions invalid.

Hultberg said he's notified Recall Committee Secretary Lance Miller of his findings. Miller immediately led a delegation to city hall Tuesday morning with more than 150 additional signatures for each councilmen facing recall on supplemental petitions.

The petitions forcing a recall election of Mayor Neil Christal and Councilmen Ted Long and Dick Griffith needed 3,973 names each.

After going through the names, Hultberg said Christal's petition needed 40 more names, Long's required an additional six signatures and the Griffith petition was lacking eight signatures.

There were, according to Hultberg, 279 invalid names on Long's petitions, plus 58 signatures were withdrawn. There were 63 names each withdrawn from Christal's and Griffith's petitions. Listed as not valid were 247 signatures for Christal and 244 for Griffith.

The recall committee Tuesday morning claimed an additional 155 names for Christal's removal and 157 signatures each for the ousting of Long and Griffith.

City Attorney Joseph Galligan has ruled the name gathering during this period as legal. He explained that the election code section at one time said that after the city clerk has found a petition not to contain enough signatures, proponents had "30 days to circulate and file" a supplemental petition.

Galligan said the legislature in 1969 eliminated the words "circulate and," which makes the code read simply that proponents have "30 days to file" a supplemental petition.

The city attorney said that the no-recall group likewise would have been within legal bounds to continue seeking "letters of withdrawal." Galligan said, however, these signatures would have to be for withdrawing names on the supplemental petition, not the original petitions.

Yule Buyer Inherits Cost Of Shoplifting Epidemic

By FRANK LaPIERRE

San Mateo County shoppers will be digging deeper into their pockets this Christmas season to pay for shoplifting losses suffered by retail stores.

The crime of shoplifting has now reached epidemic proportions throughout the country with one internationally known security agency predicting losses (called "shrinkage" in the business) of $600 million nationwide during this holiday season.

Pinkerton's Incorporated attributed this staggering figure to self-service merchandise display counters which are easily accessible to customers. There also is a feeling that many shoplifters are treated overly lenient by courts after being apprehended.

Toughened Attitudes...

For the most part San Mateo County's retail stores have decided to toughen their attitude in dealing with shoplifters.

Each store sets its own policy. Some dismiss the incident if it concerns an amateur and is less than $50, while others file charges regardless of the amount involved in the crime.

Still others have young shoplifters call their parents and explain why they are being detained. The latter normally involves first time juvenile offenders and has proved effective, one major department store manager explained.

Parents are often stunned to receive such a call, according to J. C. Penney Company's Donald Davis.

Exactly how much merchandise shoplifters take from stores is unknown.

Retailers blame this lack of accurate accounting on the fact that shoplifting thefts are included in the overall shrinkage figure at year's end. This figure also includes returned merchandise, damaged goods, lost items and internal thefts.

West Coast statisticians have noted, however, that such losses have jumped from one per cent of gross sales five years ago, to an average of three per cent during the past 12 months.

If this is any indication of the increase in shoplifting crimes then the annual nationwide figure is costing consumers hundreds of millions of dollars each year, experts conclude.

But most figures relating to these crimes are debated by persons close to the subject. No one — police, retailers or security agents — will verify or deny figures concerning losses.

One thing is clear: the consumer and not insurance carriers are stuck with the bill when it comes to making up this cost differential at the end of the year. No store could stand to absorb the financial attack launched by shoplifters and no insurance company will cover such risks for a reasonable premium — if at all.

Merchandisers large and small would rather not discuss the latter.

Not until a few years ago when shoplifting, or at least the detection of shoplifting, rose to a level that started hurting did the larger stores toss out the floor-walker with the white carnation in his lapel and bring in the professional detective. And only then did arrests and prosecutions of shoplifters and internal pilferers begin in earnest.

The biggest contributor to this rise in shoplifting crimes is today's modern merchandising methods — namely open counters where consumers can have personal contact with the goods.

Prior to the open counter display, goods were kept behind counters. Customers had to ask the sales clerk for items.

Another factor credited with curbing shoplifting in days past was the stigma attached to getting caught stealing from stores.

"This is no longer true," a San Mateo department store security officer said.

'Forget the Lecture'...

"I picked up a young girl the other day and she told me to forget the lecture and let her sign whatever she had to sign so she could go home," he said.

The same story was repeated by security officers and store managers in several cities in San Mateo County and San Francisco.

Courts are contributing to this rise by being overly lenient with shoplifters hauled into court, some store officials feel.

One chainstore manager, on the other hand, pointed out that his company refused to prosecute persons caught stealing under $50 in goods. He felt this policy encouraged thefts.

Smaller stores likewise feel that filing complaints against petty crooks is a complete waste of time and money and prefer to forget the incident.

One thing all stores — large and small — do is maintain a "who's who" file on shoplifters. This file is circulated to all stores' employes.

Restrictive Zoning On Industrial Land?

A Dilemma Faces SSF Councilmen

By BOB PETERSON

South San Francisco councilmen must make a crucial decision soon of whether to put a restrictive zoning on industrial zoned properties.

The restricted zoning is necessary if the city wants to obtain federal aid for a Colma Creek flood control project.

The area is proposed as a new routing for Colma Creek waters into the bay. It encompasses properties on the west side of Bayshore, from Colma Creek south to Navigable Slough.

Congressman Paul N. (Pete) McCloskey told the councilmen Friday that the area must not contain any more major developments or the proposed Army Corps of Engineers project is down the drain.

If the councilmen do proceed with the restrictions, they have been promised a legal battle by realtor Lou Poletti. He has property in the area for which development has already been held up by an emergency city ordinance.

The ordinance, forbidding development for 90 days, expires in mid-December. "If you (councilmen) extend it for the next five years, you'll wish you hadn't," said Poletti.

"If you think you're seeing me today, wait. I'm going to move my bed up here. They (Corps) just pick out a route. Property owners aren't informed. They (Corps) cut a 300 foot swath through prime area. I would tell them to get lost," said Poletti.

Congressman McCloskey was in South San Francisco Friday morning to inspect Colma Creek flood damage. He never got out to tour the area. McCloskey did promise, however, to walk the creek bed Sunday afternoon.

The congressman also requested a meeting be set up in early January (when he will be free) between Army Corps of Engineers and representatives of the firm of Wilsey and Ham, who made a study of creek flooding in 1961. The exact date of the meeting will be established later.

McCloskey's purpose for the meeting is to have "a chance for cross examination," to determine whether a sufficiently protective flood control project can be built in the existing channel.

The Army engineers have ruled this possibility out because, as McCloskey put it, "encroachment of buildings is too close to where they have to construct a trench."

Poletti, however, brought out information and maps in which Wilsey and Ham indicated such a project was feasible.

"If you are going to get federal funds, you must allow it to be built to federal standards," said McCloskey. "However, if you are going to do it with local money and local criteria, that's something else. I can't make that decision. It has to be made by this jurisdiction."

McCloskey said he wouldn't take a stand on the issue until

Daly City Meeting on JESD Budget Proposals

By WILL E. THOMAS

Proposals to meet Jefferson Elementary School District commitments have been submitted to Daly City-Colma P-TA leaders and an informational meeting will be held at the Daniel Webster School at 8 p.m. Thursday.

District Supt. Frank Greenwood has warned the community that the district could be upwards of $500,000 in the red next year if costs are not reduced massively.

He has called on administrators, teachers and parents to offer suggestions on cost-cutting, program curtailment or revision and personnel use.

Mrs. Peter J. Markovich, Jefferson P-TA Council president, explained that the Daniel Webster P-TA scheduled tomorrow's session originally. But, she had been urged by several members of the council to call a special meeting to discuss the same topic. Greenwood consented to council involvement, Mrs. Markovich said.

Dr. Vinton Stratton and Roger Barthuli, associate superintendents, are to discuss the proposals — compiled by the district's committee on educational planning.

Sources of some six suggestions submitted to the parents for their review and comment are varied, and, Dr. Stratton noted, sometimes in conflict with each other.

"There is nothing firm about any of the proposals," said Dr. Stratton. He said he hoped more suggestions would be received.

The proposals range from having high school youths cut school lawns, giving janitors more tools with which to make small repairs and freezing of salaries to elimination of transportation, summer school and certain positions.

Additionally, the packet of proposals includes a lengthy offering dealing with a conceptual cluster complex program, with a ratio of 300 students per cluster for primary grades.

A cost analysis accompanying the plan indicated cost reductions of $387,048 — primarily in the areas of complex administrators, special teaching personnel and custodians.

County Tax Receipts Lag

An unusually high delinquency rate in the payment of local property taxes was forecast today by County Tax Collector-Treasurer Ross Conti.

With only two days remaining to beat the deadline for payment of the first installment of 1970-71 taxes, Conti said, only $29.7 million of an anticipated $93 million collection had been received in his office.

"The money is coming in a little slower than last year," Conti noted, "and it gives some concern that we may face a higher delinquency rate than in the past."

But even if that turns out to be the case, he added, he is looking forward to an improvement in the picture by April when the second installments are due.

A Move in S.S.F. to Control Floods

Related Stories, Pages 4 and 5

South San Francisco councilmen Monday night unanimously adopted a pair of resolutions designed to control the problem of flooding in that city.

The first, on the motion of Councilman William Borba, requests the county "and all agencies" to stop all construction in the highlands during the month of October, unless the work can be done without contributing to the winter flood problem.

Borba's motion was followed by another, introduced by Councilman Frank Mammini, to the effect that the city will be prepared to sue adjoining cities "and all agencies" for causing silt to flow into Colma Creek.

Councilman Borba suggested that construction could be continued in the spring. He was concerned that erosion on the upper sections of South San Francisco and Serramonte in Daly City were main contributors to the problem.

The councilmen also approved allocation of $15,000 in an emergency resolution to be used for Colma Creek repairs.

Realtor Lou Poletti was again on hand to protest an extension of the recent 90-day emergency ordinance that prevented him from developing property tentatively scheduled for use by the Army Corps of Engineers as a route for Colma Creek waters into the bay.

Also on hand was a representative of the Army Corps, Ellis Wheelis, of the San Francisco District Office. Prior to the meeting, councilmen received a letter from the corps relative to the proposal to divert the flow of Colma Creek onto properties along the west side of Bayshore from the creek south to Navigable Slough.

The letter said preliminary investigations for the diversion concept have been completed.

The letter also said that "project authorization can in no way be assured at this time. Our preliminary findings indicate that this project can be economically justified only by a very small margin."

Poletti said "There's a reasonably good chance that I won't build before January 5," thereby informally agreeing to wait until after a meeting to be set up between Congressman Paul N. (Pete) McCloskey, the army engineers and the firm of Wilsey, Ham and Blair. He still

Pinball Case Sentencing Due Jan. 5

Probation reports and sentencing is scheduled for January 5 on four persons arrested last May and charged with illegal pinball machine operations in San Bruno.

Pleading no contest to possession and control of pinball machines were Eric Carlyle, 71, of San Francisco, Helen Price, 52, Ted McHugh, 48, and Edward Segali, 51, all of Millbrae.

The four were arrested May 1, following an investigation by San Bruno police and the district attorney's office. The illegal operations were allegedly taking place at The Dog House, 130 El Camino Real.

On that same date, police arrested Joseph Sammut Jr., 53, and Joseph Sammut III, 28, both of San Bruno, on illegal pinball operations at Artichoke Joe's, 676 San Mateo Avenue. They are co-owners of the establishment.

The jury trial for the Sammuts has been reset for February 10 at 9:30 a.m. at North County Judicial District Court in South San Francisco.

Flood Victims Complain

Went to DC Meet 'Upset,' Left 'Angry'

Victims of the recent Daly City flood inundated the City Council with complaints Monday.

Primarily from the Market-Hillside and Westlake Estates areas, the flood victims demanded to know what the city intended to do to prevent future flooding.

They came to the council meeting upset and left even angrier.

Several took swipes at city engineer David Macabee for a statement he made following the flood which advised residents of low-lying areas to move to higher ground as soon as storm warnings were sounded.

Others from the Westlake Estates section—said the area had flooded every year.

William Johns, of 24 Westpark Drive, said he had been flooded out of his home every year except this year.

"This year I was flooded twice," he said.

When told it would take some $500,000 to modify the system and the city did not know where such funds would come from, Johns replied:

"Don't tell me you don't know where to get the money (to modify the system). If you wanted it for something you needed you would find a way."

Even more vociferous in his condemnation of the City Council was James Poulos, a resident at 36 Westpark Drive for the past seven and a half years.

Poulos accused the city of not following through on its promises to install a bigger drain pipe in the area.

Mayor Bernard Lycett informed Poulos that a bigger pipe had been installed. However, attempts to install another storm pipe that would drain overflow into Lake Merced were thwarted by San Francisco.

San Francisco turned thumbs down on the project because they felt it would pollute the lake water.

The answers did little to soothe the crowd's temper.

While the areas continued to flood each year the city continued to allow more building to "go on," Poulos said. He insisted all building in Daly City halt until an answer was found to end the flooding.

Citizens flooded out of their homes in the First-to-Third Avenues section, east of the Junipero Serra Freeway, told of wathat swirled five feet deep through their homes.

In on case it threatened the lives of three small children asleep in a street level bedroom at the Thomas H. Galvin home on Third Avenue.

Galvin said a neighbor called at the height of the downpour and he rushed into the lower bedroom in time to rescue his three small grandchildren.

This area has been hit with periodic flooding for the past 19 years, he said.

"We lost $8,000 in property damages. That's a lot of money to go down the drain," one victim sadly noted.

Anderson Resigns as President of JCTA

Larry Anderson resigned late Monday as president of the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association in Daly City.

He said his action, "in the best interests of JCTA," was taken "with the feeling that I am not knowledgeable with the concept of the Memorandum of Agreement and its implementation."

The Memorandum of Agreement was approved by the JCTA and the Jefferson district trustees at the beginning of the present school term after a weeklong teachers' strike.

Anderson has been replaced by the first vice president, Ray Downen. Both Downen and Anderson are Fernando Rivera School teachers. Mrs. Nancy Kaye of Garden Village moved up to first vice president. Her replacement has not been selected.

Anti-Pesticide Drive

A conservation leader Saturday announced a campaign to secure legislation to ban pesticides in California which contain chlorinated hydrocarbons, and urged a public letter-writing drive to state and national legislators in support of such a ban.

Larry Green of San Bruno, western editor of the outdoor magazine, "Field and Stream" said that he was submitting a "package of findings by eminent authorities in every field" to the county's state and national representatives.

Green said the package contained the names of scores of scientific experts, and their findings on chlorinated hydrocarbons.

Democratic State Assemblyman Leo Ryan, Democratic State Senator Arlen Gregorio, and Republican Congressman Paul McCloskey will have, or already have the package, he said. Others, he added, including Congressman Jerome Waldie, will receive it.

"California is the leading agricultural state in the nation," ban."
he said. "It will mean a major victory if we can achieve the

"But it also means a tough fight with the pesticide lobby."

Green said that there were 100 letters or findings in the ban - pesticides - with-chlorinated-hydrocarbons package. They included, he said, opinions of men with 65 doctorates "in every field of research."

"A reader who consumes this has full knowledge of what the chlorinated hydrocarbons are doing to us," he said.

Judges' Sons Pass State Bar Exam

Sons of three San Mateo County judges are fledgling attorneys today, being among those passing the latest State Bar examination.

Being admitted to the practice of law are Frank W. Rose Jr., Frank B. Blum Jr. and Robert E. Carey Jr.

Judge Rose, of San Mateo, and Judge Blum, of Daly City, are Superior Court judges, and Judge Carey, of Atherton, presently a Municipal Court judge, has been elected to Superior Court and will assume that post in January.

Young Rose, 26, is a graduate of the University of California at Santa Barbara and of Boalt Hall, Berkeley. He and his wife, Jeannie, reside in San Francisco where Rose hopes to join the public defender's office to gain courtroom experience.

Judge Blum's son, 27, resides with his wife, Rose, in Daly City where he will join the law firm of Hupf, Etcheverry and Coan. Blum is a graduate of San Francisco State College and Golden Gate College of Law.

A Move in S.S.F. to Control Floods

stressed the necessity of following the recommendations of the Wilsey, Ham and Blair report.

This report, originally prepared in 1961 said the cost for 100-year storm protection would be $1,734,200 for the upper and lower parts of Colma Creek, plus the Navigable Slough.

Poletti pointed out that even if that figure is nine years old and were to be doubled in today's inflationary spiral it still is considerably less than the $17 million estimated by the army engineers."

The realtor said it was unfair to pick on the army engineers. "They're doing all they can. I'm angry with the system they have to work under," said Poletti.

"We have to get a local project started," said Poletti. "They're taking the blame, but the brunt of the problem lies right there in the head seat. We need some positive thinking. We've got to get off dead center."

City Attorney John Noonan came to Mayor Patrick Ahern's rescue, saying the council has done "a heck of a lot" and "can't be faulted with trying to get a maximum project."

Noonan said the January 5 meeting is essential because it will allow a look at the two projects and offer the possibility of an alternative approach, possibly utilizing some ideas from each proposal.

Wheelis, who answered many questions from residents, but offered no solution, said the corps never builds projects in urban areas of less than those designed for 100-year storms.

He said the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) insists on it, and the corps "doesn't want to give a false sense of security with levees."

WHY LEATHER?

Some quotable quotes from an interview with Mr. Monroe Jang, owner of the Lady J. Specialist in leather and fur fashions.

"Every woman's wardrobe to be complete must include leather."

"Leather garment with proper care improves with age."

"In today's market leather is a good buy – it has gone up in price, but relatively less than other fashions."

"To give her leather is give a gift of lasting value."

"The trend to leather represents a reaction away from artificiality."

"Like natural woods leather is comforting to have around."

"Will it go out of style? You must be kidding – the skins of animals were the first things man put on his back! Could it be the last?"

"Properly put together, a leather garment is not only a thing of beauty to behold – it appeals as well to one's sense of touch and smell."

"Although one's initial investment is slightly higher it is less expensive over the years – a leather coat, for instance, will stay in a woman's wardrobe for ten years, instead of one to three years."

"Yes, it's true. We at Lady J. do have the largest collection of women's leather garments in the Bay Area."

"There is a vast difference in the quality of leather and in the way leathe garments are put together. Like in most things, you get what you pay for."

"New methods of tannings and finishing have greatly reduced the problem of leather care."

Why Give Her MINK? – When she would prefer leather – It's a lot smarter –

YES, we are going along with the "Peacock Revolution" – we have leather for men styled by Oleg Cassini.

Pedestrian Killed, 2 Policemen Hurt

A San Bruno pedestrian was killed, and two police officers were severely injured Thursday as rain and drizzle obscured darkened roadways.

The victims:

Carolyn Rose Schuchard, 22, of 580 Hawthorne Avenue, San Bruno, fatally injured while crossing a San Bruno street shortly after 5 p.m.

Burlingame Police Sergeant Melvin Porter, 47, admitted to intensive care, Peninsula Hospital, for head injuries after his patrol car was rammed from behind just after midnight Friday on California Drive at Oak Grove.

Burlingame Police Sergeant William Lee Rowland, 54, injured in the same car, admitted to Peninsula Hospital for head injuries and observation.

The fatal accident in San Bruno occurred as Miss Schuchard walked westbound on Huntington Avenue in the crosswalk across Sylvan Avenue when a vehicle approached Sylvan northbound on Huntington in a drizzle, police said. They reported numerous mud puddles.

She was prounounced dead on arrival at Peninsula Hospital at approximately 5:30 p.m.

The driver, Louie Joseph Pinue, 23, 466 Kensington Avenue, San Bruno, was arraigned Friday on Charges of vehicle manslaughter, failure to yield to a pedestrian in a crosswalk, and operating an unsafe vehicle, police said.

Sergeants in charge of two workshifts of Burlingame policemen were injured early Friday when the patrol car they were riding in was rammed from behind by another auto.

Investigators from the California Highway Patrol said the impact was so great, both victims were knocked out.

(Highway Patrolmen investigate all accidents involving city police, whether or not they occur on state highways.)

The driver of the other car, Ben Martin Jeckloe, 27-year-old roofer, of 418 Grand Blvd., San Mateo, was booked at county jail for investigation of felonious drunken driving. Patrolmen said he was not injured.

The injured policemen were both reported in satisfactory condition Friday.

Highway Patrolmen Dale Chesley and Lawrence Osborn estimated that Jeckloe's car was going 40 to 50 miles an hour at impact. There was no indication that he had applied the brakes, they said. The police car was knocked 288 feet, Chesley and Osborn reported.

San Brunan Convicted

Penalty deliberations are to begin today for the first degree murder conviction of Frank J. Thurber of San Bruno in the slaying of Allan W. Daly, San Rafael Independent-Journal systems designer.

The Superior Court jury deliberated 16 hours before deciding in favor of prosecution arguments that Thurber was "the man behind the scene" in the July 4 shooting of Daly in his Portreo Hill home.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Pierce Merle contended in his final arguments the slaying was connected with a strike against the Independent-Journal although Thurber was an employe of the San Francisco Printing Co., and his union does not have a unit at the San Rafael paper.

Merle argued that Thurber armed Larry Rutherford and Richard Wamsley, both 17, and drove them to Daly's house.

The youths were commited to the California Youth authority later for long term detention after telling police they had been hired to "get tough" with Daly.

Police inspectors John McKenna and David Nelson said Mrs. Daly told them her home was invaded by two persons brandishing guns and when her husband appeared, one said, "That's the guy we want."

Mrs. Daly said she was forced into the kitchen and robbed of $5 in household money, but the sound of a gunshot brought her back to the living room where she found her husband bleeding from a bullet wound, McKenna said.

A Bartender Cut by Saber In Daly City

One bartender was cut with a saber and another clubbed with a pool cure in a Daly City tavern December 1.

Police said a group of juveniles apparently created disturbance while passing Kirchhubel's Tavern, 6296 Mission Street, shortly after 6 p.m.

Larry Sharon, 574 Fourth Street, Montara, received lumps on the head from a pool cue, but did not require treatment.

However, James J. Crudo, 65 Theta Avenue, Daly City, was treated at Mary's Help Hospital for superficial saber wounds to the left arm and a laceration on the back of his head, according to police.

The juveniles had entered the bar, and, at one point, an object hit a patron.

Sharon became involved, police said, in an altercation outside with Jimmy E. Kendrick, 19, Daly City, who called for assistance.

Garcia Sanders, 37, Daly City, responded — armed with a saber, said police.

The altercation shifted to inside the tavern, where the two bartenders allegedly were assaulted, police said.

No charges have been lodged.

Three Items Before SSF Planners

Three controversial issues are scheduled to be heard at the December 14 meeting of the South San Francisco planning commission, according to Planning Director Dan Pass.

One item pertains to the zoning ordinance of the city and concerns a proposed amendment to regulate land uses, buildings, and structures proposed for construction in the flood plains of the city.

In May the council adopted a resolution assuring compliance with the requrement of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) relating to land use and control measures in areas having special flood hazards.

In order to continue to receive federally-funded flood insurance the council must adopt prior to December 31 the ordinance amendment.

The proposed amendment would prevent construction in the flood hazard areas. It would not be retroactive, and would apply to existing structures, buildings and land uses only in the event of their proposed enlargement or expansion.

Another item on the agenda has to do with the designation of future solid and liquid waste disposal facilities. This is necessary because of recent state legislation.

Several proposals to amend the general plan will be discussed, including establishment of a regional or area-wide incinerator or recycling plant for disposal of the North County's solid waste at Utah Avenue and Kimball Way, next to the Navigable Slough.

Pass said this disposal facility could become a part of the city's proposed regional park.

Another recommendation is that existing sewer treatment plant in the city's Belle Air Industrial area should be expanded to meet the projected needs of South San Francisco and San Bruno. The conversion recommended would be to a higher level of secondary treatment, with a deep-water outfall, or tertiary treatment if required.

Also proposed is that the Westborough County Water District urge the North San Mateo County Sanitation District to gauge its disposal capacity to the projected needs of this fast growing section of the city.

Further along this line is that, if practicable, the jurisdiction for the disposal of Westborough's liquid waste should be transferred from the Westborough County Water District to the city of South San Francisco.

This supposedly would enable the city's sewer treatment plant to dispose of Westborough's liquid waste on a gravity-flow basis and eliminate the need for expensive, less reliable pumping.

And a third controversial item on the agenda has to do with rezoning a 1.28 acre of land at the northeast corner of Westborough and Callan Boulevards. This area will be reclassified from "neighborhood commercial" to "medium-high density residential."

In turn the proposal is to reclassify exactly opposite zonings to 1.28 acres at the southwest corner of Callan Boulevard and King Drive.

The proposed reclassifications would not increase the commercial acerage allowed for in the general plan. It would merely re-arrange the commercial properties.

If approved the exchange would remove excess commercial acreage from the "civic center" of the Westborough community and re-establish it along a proposed off-ramp of the future Skyline Freeway.

SSF Residents Told of Eligibility for Flood Insurance---

South San Francisco residents were told last week they are eligible for flood insurance three days after weekend floods.

Councilmen Wednesday okayed issuance of a press release to this effect, approximately seven months after they adopted a resolution for the federally sponsored insurance.

Acting City Manager Larry Ross explained that when the city first was told of its eligibility former City Manager Tom McKenzie wanted to check the proposal to make sure residents wouldn't be obligated to buy insurance whether or not they wanted it just because they have a federal or state home loan.

While in the process of checking this and other problem areas out, McKenzie was fired. The program was not familiar to Ross at that time. It wasn't until after he was appointed acting city manager, and also performing his previous duties as assistant city manager, that he became aware of the status of the program.

Maps showing the approved flood-prone areas are located in the city clerk's office, said Ross.

The program was established under the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968. Flood insurance becomes available through a cooperative effort of the federal government and private insurance companies. In addition, local governments must adopt land use provisions to restrict future development of land in flood prone areas. A resolution to this effect will be taken up at the December 14 meeting of the city's planning commissioners.

The plan is to provide flood insurance at reasonable rates on existing structures. The insurance may be obtained through the homeowners present property insurance agent or broker. Fireman's Fund Insurance Group is the authorized carrier in the Bay Area.

According to the program, structures in flood prone areas will be eligible for a lower than normal rate. Structutres built after the area is identified as a flood-prone area will have to pay the full premium risk.

Initially, flood insurance will be available for one-to-four-family residential properties. Coverage for small business properties will be provided after special rate studies are completed. Ross said that as more experience is gained, coverage can be extended to other types and classes of properties.

The amount of insurance is limited to $17,500 liability per dwelling unit and $30,000 for any single structure. These limitations apply only to premium rates below actuarial cost.

According to Ross, the act is designed to encourage individuals who already reside in flood-prone areas to pay at least part of the cost of insurance against flood damage, thus reducing the need for special disaster relief. No duplications of benefits is allowable.

Earlier Start For Service

S.S.F. in Zone Dilemma

the city made a decision. "Once you've made your decision, I'll try to implement it in every possible way," said McCloskey. "But I have to have engineering facts that say it can be done the way you want it done. I'm satisfied the Corps has moved as fast as the law permits them to move."

The case McCloskey presented supposedly is outlined fully in a report by the Army Corps of Engineers. The councilmen are scheduled to receive that report December 10.

Cost of the proposed detoured project is estimated at $17 million, including $4 million for land acquisition, according to McCloskey.

He also pointed out that the earliest time the project could begin would be in 1975, and it would take seven years to complete. The channel would be designed for a 100-year flood. McCloskey said annual dredging would cost $75,000 with an estimated 50,000 cubic yards of silt being removed yearly.

Poletti, who earlier had called the proposal "a g r a n d i o s e scheme," said that if "city officials past and present," had not sat and waited for the Corps to canal could already have been bail the city out, a drainage built.

"This city has done nothing for 15 years," said Poletti. "We are to the point where something has to be done. We should not have waited for the Corps. The Corps is dead wrong on this project. You can stay in Colma Creek."

The realtor says the particular area proposed for restriction has never flooded.

He contends the $4 million the army engineers set aside for land acquisition isn't half right. "In 1975 it'll be more like $10 million," said Poletti. "You can't pick up one parcel for $4 million." He named several firms located in the area who he said are ready to join him in legal action.

As to the zoning restrictions, it never was determined h o w this would be carried out. The comment was made by McCloskey that other jurisdictions have rezoned from manufacturing to agricultural on the basis of "non-conforming use."

Councilman Frank Mammini questioned whether the city could "down-zone" without paying for it. "We are talking about an $8 million land purchase by the city on the gamble the Corps might develop the area into a flood channel."

City Attorney John Noonan said the city could change the zoning "on a reasonable regulatory basis."

County Supervisor Ged Day requested the county be kept informed on progress being made to have developments in the "upper reaches of the watershed" pay for flood control because of contributing to the problem.

"The county can help," offered Mayor Patrick Ahern. "You are one of the contributors."

City officials are seeking the congressman's aid in pressuring the Army Corps of Engineers to do something about the continual flooding of Colma Creek. The city has been pleading with the Corps for at least 10 years to construct a flood control project to hold back the creek waters. Such a project has been estimated at $10 million.

In the past several months the city has gained the most ground, pinning the Corps down to a specific date of December 10 for a report on the feasibility of a project.

The city two months ago passed an emergency ordinance to prevent development of certain areas because the lands were being studied by the corps as a possible rerouting of Colma Creek and the creek waters.

At a recent council study session Realtor Lou Poletti informed the councilmen he was highly upset by the ordinance. He has property he wants to develop.

According to Poletti, the alternate route suggested by the Corps would wipe out an area that already carries an assessed valuation of $7 million.

Poletti called it "a grandiose scheme" and said the Corps has "a reputation for costly unnecessary projects."

The South San Francisco realtor and one-time councilman said he's well aware of the Colma Creek flooding problem and suggested the city "do something that should have been done a long time ago—put up some wing walls, and where necessary line the creek with concrete."

Poletti said he would wait for the report from the Corps and if it proved not a satisfactory recommendation he would take whatever legal action he felt necessary to develop the property he owns.

Last week councilmen heard another disturbed businessman, Kevin Howard, vice president of Flexible Plastics Corporation, 132 Maple Avenue.

Howard told the council he has contacted people on Victory, Linden and Spruce Avenues and Canal Street asking them to appear at the Monday night council meeting "to raise hell" about the damage the weekend flooding caused them.

According to Howard the weekend rains cost him $4,000 because he was forced to shut down his plant. Howard said he also has written to McCloskey, the County Board of Supervisors and Gov. Ronald Reagan concerning the problem. He said, "It is a tragedy to allow this to happen."

Howard said he felt any project to contain the waters should be shared by those who create the problem; namely the developments on the higher ground, not only in South San Francisco, but in Daly City also.

City Attorney John Noonan said that probably the only relief that could be found would be to sue contractors and property owners where massive grading is taking place. He indicated it might be a little more difficult to get any satisfaction from the city of Daly City per se.

Noonan explained the near impossibility of stopping liquid run-off, since it is a "natural" phenomenon. He did say, however, shifting silt doesn't carry the same protection. This, to him, would be the thing to pursue.

Acting City Manager Larry Ross showed numerous colored slides to illustrate the fact there was an enormous amount of silt carried by the flood waters onto South San Francisco properties.

Councilman Bill Borba blamed the city planning department for the flooding. He said it was due to poor planning of Westborough and the West Park planned communities. "All they want to do is build," said Borba.

A Post Graduate Course at Curran

The daily activities onstage at the Curran Theatre make an ideal field study for drama majors. For anyone with aspirations toward theatrical producing, it would be a post-graduate course.

"Lovely Ladies, Kind Gentlemen" isn't just another musical being offered by the Civic Light Opera. We've had all the tried and true earlier in the season. This is the big gamble for producer Edwin Lester who threw in his money, subscription series and faith with New York producer Herman Levin to test the show on the coast and perfect it before the New York opening on December 28.

There have been many changes, major changes since the local critics saw it six weeks ago. Most shows undergo at least a 35 percent change before that "big" night, which always refers to the Broadway debut. Every night's audience sees a slightly different show than the night before, all by way of improvement that has kept the producer, director, choreographer, composer, lyricist and author passing into the Geary Street theater daily.

David Burns joins the cast tonight in the role of Col. Purdy. He was last seen here as Horace Vandergelder, the role he created on Broadway in "Hello Dolly." He has twice won Tony Awards and recently completed the television versions of "The Price" and "Harry Kellerman" in which he costarred with Dustin Hoffman.

Burns was the original choice for the key role of an American military brass who rules the Okinawans by the book and not by common sense or compassion. The actor was appearing in the Art Buchwald revue, "Sheep On The Runway" when the musical opened.

Reshaping the show isn't simply a matter of routine changes. John Patrick, who wrote the book "Teahouse of the August Moon" has been adamant about not changing his contribution, namely the story, its theme or plot.

But while critics, professional and otherwise, pointed out that the story was outdated and the nation's involvement in Vietnam put a new light on the World War II story, Patrick stood by his line that has a native asking "how is President McKinley these days?" The author thought it was funny in 1946 and claims those kind of jokes won him the Pulitzer Prize.

Another suggestion voiced more than once was to change the title, but Levin is superstitious about the success of two previous shows of his, "My Fair Lady" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and will keep the good luck words of "Ladies and Gentlemen" come hell or high water. The original cast album is due waxing in a few weeks and as of now, the title is still "Lovely Ladies, Kind Gentlemen."

Director Lawrence Kasha regrets he was lulled into false security by rave reviews in Philadelphia (they're blown up on posters outside the Curran Theatre) and feels they'd have started repairing earlier if they'd have had reviews like the San Francisco and Peninsula critics wrote.

The musical didn't get bad reviews here but there was room for improvement. They've been rehearsing like fury every day to that end. The finale is completely changed, songs have been added, altered and their positions switched. In one change the geisha chorus girls don't rip off their kimonos and do a high kicking, razzle-dazzle modern strut.

Morale is high in the cast because they feel they've honed the musical to top level. The repair work brought the show's original production costs from $350,000 to an excess of $750,000 but the payoffs are big for a hig Broadway musical.

As for the picket protest that broke out on opening night in Philadelphia, Los Angeles and San Francisco, it was a tempest in a teapot, according to the show and theater management officials.

Five hundred cards were printed and distributed to Oriental patrons who attended the show, asking if it was racist or offensive to Orientals. Not one affirmative was turned back.

The complaint was that Orientals weren't hired or given the job opportunity. Actually one third of the cast is Oriental and the acting union Equity wouldn't permit such a breach of their members rights.

Drug Abuse Panel Today in Pacifica

Participants of the Drug Forum, set for tonight met with the Pacifica Jaycees at a luncheon Saturday.

Final details were worked out between the Jaycees, television newscaster Ed Hart, who will be the moderator, and the panel members.

As a result of suggestions presented by Hart, some basic changes are being made in the program. Portions have been revamped so the forum is slanted toward both teenagers and parents.

Police Chief Mel Nelson, who has been a key man in helping the Jaycees with the Drug Forum, was enthusiastic about the changes, as were the other panel members. According to Jaycee President Ken Addleman, "The Forum is headed for sure success. Now all we need is people to come to the program."

One last minute change has been made in the panel. Gene Post from the San Mateo Probation Department has replaced Wilbur Hawkins.

The Drug Forum is being held at Oceana High School and will begin at 7:45 p.m. It is open to the public and the Jaycees are encouraging both parents and school age children, especially teenagers, to attend.

The Pacifica Jaycees have committed themselves to devote whatever effort is necessary to help solve the drug problems of Pacifica.

According to Chairman Fred Howard, this is only the beginning. If this program is successful, similar ones will follow. If not, a different approach to solving drug abuse will be tried.

Daly City Yule Drive Is Praised

Operation Santa Claus was commended this week by Daly City Mayor Bernard J. Lycett for efforts in behalf of the city's needy families during the Christmas season.

Lycett, representing the city, praised "all those who give of their time and talents" in the project.

He encouraged all citizens to "give generously and be receptive when they are approached for contributions" during the Operation Santa Claus drive.

The project has been carried on in the city for the past 20 years. It is credited with brightening many homes with baskets of food and toys for needy children.

Last year 183 families were assisted in this manner, Lycett noted.

"Hundreds of children under the guidance of the schools and Recreation Department, go door to door to collect items of food (during the drive). Toys are collected at the fire stations, repaired and made like new," Lycett said.

The "Operation" is conducted under the auspices of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce and supported by some 18 civic organizations.

Information may be obtained by calling Peter J. Markovich at the Chamber.

A project being undertaken by the Student Government class is that of accredidation.

On March 8 a committee from the WASC is coming to Jefferson to accredit it for college eligibility.

Questionnaires were answered by about 400 students and the answers were then put into percentiles. Also, a student committee of 10 that carried on the project answered a questionnaire.

One main report will be made to the accreditation committee, and a general tour of the campus taken.

Christmas is in the air and the Latin Heritage Organization Club is sponsoring a Christmas Posada to be held December 18 in the Jefferson cafeteria.

A Mexican dinner will be served while the music of the Mariachis is performed.

The Jeff band also will play. The activity is to begin at 5 p.m.

A tree decorating contest among Jeff, Westmoor, and Serramonte will be featured.

Prices: Adults, $2; students, $1.50; children, 75 cents (under five, free).

All proceeds will go to the school band.

Citizens who want to donate furniture in good condition should contact Linda Snelgrove.

The name "Salt of the Earth" represents the mass labor force.

Strength is found in numbers and organization with the people.

In any society, accomplishment is made by those truly interested in the advancement of the people; in other words, by the "Salt of the Earth."

Because of this, we chose the name to indicate our very real interest in building an organization among the youth of Daly City.

The duties of a youth council is the organization of youth in a target area. San Mateo is separated in six target areas started by the E.O.C. (Economic Opportunity Commission). They are Daly City, South San Francisco, Pacifica, San Mateo, Redwood City, and East Palo Alto.

The youth councils were started to improve communication with the youths in the target areas, to express the youths' viewpoint and help other problems that have and will arise in our communities. The outcome of being disatisfied with past youth, teen clubs, etc. is our present youth council, in which we hope to promote educational, financial and recreational programs to benefit the youth in the target areas.

Some of the projects the Youth Council hope to accomplish include:

A Summer Youth Employment Program oriented to minority and low-income people.

Aiding youth in locating jobs.

Making youth aware of every day occurences by bringing in speakers and films pertaining to current events.

Investigation or a day care center.

Fund-raising activities, such as dances, county wide sports teams, car washes, clothes and canned food drives.

For more details on the "Salt of the Earth Youth Council" please contact:

At Skyline, Rich Talavera; Jefferson, Guillermo Reece; Serramonte, Dianne Ynostroza; Westmoor, Gloria Walgamott; adult advisor, Marilyn Ream.

Meetings are held every Tuesday at the Parkview Clubhouse, 101 Parkview, Daly City.

Officers of the council: Chairman, John Rivas; vice-chairman, Diane Ynostroza; secretary, Gloria Walgamott; treasurer, Mary Winterhalter; Youth Council organizers, Carolyn Pearson and Guillermo Reece; sergeant-at-arms, Margie Talavera and Carmen Suarez.

Skyline's Sierra Club Park Project

By JAN BEHLMER
Skyline College

The desolate, weed and brush covered acre of land in the northeast corner of the Skyline College campus known as Horizon Park soon will be transformed into a pine and flower studded hillside park for students to enjoy.

The college's Sierra Club during the past 45 days has been working on the project. Last year the Young Democrats headed by Art Black secured the acre of land from the SC administration to be developed and used as a student park.

To avoid any costs to the college or the students all the trees and shrubs that are being planted in the park have been donated by the community. Art Black conducted a research project to determine what plants would thrive in this environment.

Black turned the Horizon Park project over to the Sierra Club to finish and maintain. The Sierra Club, directed by president Peggy Feyge, is planting pine trees donated by the City of San Bruno as their first step in developing the area.

Future plans include the planting of a sturdy flowering hedge around the borders of the park to offer protection to the young pines. The club is planning to introduce a low growing, matted shrub to the area to cover the ground, offer comfortable sitting and prevent erosion.

They hope to place in the park benches and tables made by the inmates of the San Francisco County Jail.

Skyline College students and administration personnel who have been working on the project along with Black and Miss Feyge includes David Biddinger, manager of services; Rex Butler, advisor to the Sierra Club and college registrar; Joaquin Herrero, dean of men and student activities; Lee Neeley, head of SC maintenance, and his staff; students Linn Brownmiller, Tony Gatchalian, Debbie Rieth, Bob Doyle, Geanine Hirschorm, Carolyn Pfleg, Diane Schaff, and James Williams.

"The main objectives for creating Horizon Park are to beautify the campus and rekindle school spirit," Peggy Feyge said. "Horizon Park will be a place for students to gather and get-together."

"The completion and maintenance of the hillside park will be passed on from each year's Sierra Club to the next," she explained. "The students who have participated in this project are very enthusiastic, but I would like to see more people get involved."

The president also complimented Dr. Harold Sweet, SC life science instructor, who planned the area and suggested what plants and trees are adaptable to the area.

Several firms and city governments have been helping the students.

The area also will be used for educational purposes. According to Black, "the college's science department has agreed to hold lectures in the area once it is ready for occupancy and enjoyment."

Terra Nova Topics

By ROCKIE MONTENEGRO

Sylvia Garcia, Terra Nova super-senior, won first prize in the annual American Legion Oratorial Contest at the American Legion Hall in Pacifica.

Sylvia competed against Terra Nova and Oceana students, and is now eligible to compete in the District-wide competition in January.

The theme of the contest was "The United States Constitution."

Sylvia compared America's various forms of government in the past.

CSF, TN's honor society (California Scholarship Federation) elected its officers this semester. They are:

President, Shelley Johnson; vice president, Sylvia Garcia; secretary, Lee Shackleford; treasurer, Laura Douglas; historian, Pat Bresnahan.

CSF is planning activities to raise money for senior scholarships.

Raquel Welch, Robert Redford, and Spiro Agnew appeared on campus this week in the form of personality posters. These are part of the annual poster sales that the film club puts on each year to raise money for their club activities. So far the poster sales have proved to be extremely successful.

The Freshmen class will make history this week when they present their student-faculty donkey basketball game tonight at the Terra Nova Gym. This is the first time that this "traditional highschool activity" will be held at Terra Nova. Game time will be 7:30, and tickets will be $1 for students and $1.50 for adults.

Tiger Tales, Terra Nova's expanded quarterly news magazine, is now providing students with a chance to "tell someone you love them" in the new classified ad section that will appear in the back page of Tiger Tales.

Joint Music, E.H. Program Underway at Westmoor High

Westmoor's music department and students with an educational handicap are taking part in a new approach to teaching.

Educationally handicapped students are those unable to grasp successfully the basics of learning; reading, writing, and certain aspects of math.

One of the most important drawbacks is that they find it difficult to transfer the abstract symbols of the alphabet into concrete images of words, in their minds.

This latter fact is what brings the music department into the picture. Music students work with the "EH" and by teaching them how to read music, which is a form of simple notation, bring the students a step closer to grasping the ideas of symbols.

This idea had its origin with a suggestion by music department head Howard Loeffler, that the students of the EH class learn to read. Loesfler, who has done extensive work with students who have educational handicaps, saw the potential for success that the program could constitute, as did the two instructors of the EH class, Mrs. Winifred Washburn and John Branch.

What is considered to be the one distinctive aspect of the project that warrants the success it has had, is the one-to-one relationship between music student and the EH student. In this relationship the music theory student is able to help the student to learn with a greater chance of success, as the two are able to battle the problem at hand together.

Mrs. Washburn expressed the three main goals of the project: Helping students to gain an introduction and enjoyment of music that can be derived not only by listening, but by participating; teaching the students with an educational handicap to cope with group activities and pressures; and teaching these students how to take directions and work with their peers.

Combining his English and art majors in teaching English classes at Westmoor High, Gil Patterson has some novel approaches.

His latest tests, liberally using his calligraphy skills along with regular drawing talents composed a rather unusual test consisting of spelling and vocabulary, plus a couple of check-up questions on the book the class was reading.

It was designed artistically to capture a visual interest. Within the test, he inserted a few fun questions and directions that had no relationship to the main part of the test, allowing students to express themselves through spontaneousity.

The class was pleased with the test and impressed with the originality put into it. It also relaxed the students while taking the exam.

Patterson is working on a psychadelic type of book report, again using his painting skills.

Showing how Santa Claus comes in many different disguises, Al Silva, a student of Westmoor High School, has started a crusade for Eben Giese Jr. of Richmond, Calif.

Silva urged Westmoor's Student Congress to help Giese as a school project.

Helping Giese, who needs to purchase a kidney machine, means contributing General Mills coupons, since the firm has promised to purchase the machine for 800,000 coupons.

Silva also has asked local businesses for contributions. He has gained the Hartford Insurance Company as a sponsor and over 2,000 General Mills coupons in contributions to date.

Candle dipping, fingerpainting, and the music of three bands will be featured at Westmoor's annual Christmas dance, December 11.

The senior class dance sponsors thought it would be more interesting and draw more persons if the traditional plans were changed this year.

Formerly a semi-formal, couples-only dance, this year's Christmas Dance will be an informal party for the entire student body. Students may wear what they want, including the traditional semi-formal dress.

Fingerpainting of a large mural in a Christmas theme and booths for candle dipping are some of the activities planned for the party, in which all may participate.

Prescribing to the adage "the show must go on," Westmoor's Dina Morales has been called on to play in a combo on stage at the San Francisco State College production of "Cabaret."

Dina, a freshman drummer who plays in Westmoor's marching band and the concert band, received the chance to be on stage when the original drummer decided to vacate the premises on the night of the first dress rehearsal.

Frantically searching for a replacement, the college called Howard Loeffler, music department head of Westmoor, and asked for one of the rare types of musicians — a girl drummer.

In the production, Dina will be part of a four-piece combo consisting of a piano, a tenor sax, trumpet, and drums. The group will make several appearances on stage throughout the play. Dina will be playing the hihat, snare drum, floor cymbal and wood block and cow bell.

Senior Jeff Harris won honors at the Golden Gate Speech Tournament finals, placing fifth.

Harris and eight other Westmoor student representatives contended with 400 students, 60 being in the boys' extemporaneous event, in which Harris was entered.

Boys' extemporaneous category finds the contestant speaking on a topic of national concern, without preparation. Of the three topics possible for a speech, Jeff selected the Israeli crisis, a subject with which he has considerable familiarity, having spent the summer of 1970 at a kibbutz in Israel.

Other Westmoor students competing at the tournament included Janet Bennet, Rich Adams, Leonard Metts, Steve Sacduto, Gary McLane, Mike Luchessi, Tom Powell and Nancy Murray.

Miss Mary Ann Holden is the adviser to the group.

SHS Science Meeting Slated

The Serramonte Social Science Department is planning a discussion session with interested parents December 16 at 8 pm., in the faculty room.

The meeting is to acquaint the community with the goals of the department and to explain to the parents the classes being taught and the methods used by various teams of teachers.

First of a four-part series of meetings to be conducted by the faculty, discussions will be held in subsequent months by the English, math, and science departments.

DINNER-DANCE

Serra High School in San Mateo will be the locale for the St. Augustine's Parish Christmas dinner-dance December 12.

'Old Fashioned' Yule Program At Hope Church

The "old-fashioned" Christmas has come to be associated with what is loveliest in Christmas. Whether memories evoke this image of Christmas or it comes from the quaint pictures on Christmas cards or annuals, the Yuletide of yesteryear symbolizes anticipation, gaiety, good fellowship, and reverence. Occasionally, especially in such a changing year as 1970, stepping back for a few hours into a quieter, simpler, perhaps happier time refreshes mind and soul.

Hope Lutheran Sunday School believes that such journeying backward in time would be a novel experience for children and a delightful remembering for older people.

To make yesterday live again, Hope will present a genuine "old-fashioned" Christmas program this year. On the traditional night for such a program, the night before Christ-in the Hope Parish Hall, the Sunday Schoolers will present "No Room in the Inn."

The play will tell the story of Christmas in recitation, drama, and song. In the fashion of the '80's, toddlers will recite and sing about the Babe of Bethlehem.

Third grade girls will be diminutive angels, while their counterparts, third grade boys, will be Judean shepherds.

In a series of prophecies, the older children will tell how a Messiah was promised to the world from the fall of Adam and Eve to the days of Malachi.

Bayberry candles, turn-of-the-century decorations, old-fashioned Christmas tree trimmings, bright-faced boys and girls, and the magic tale of a birthday will make long-past Yules come alive. To add something special to the joyous occasion, candy bags will be given to Sunday School children. Refreshments will be served in the Parish Hall after the program. San Francisco and Daly City residents and those from the surrounding community are invited to attend.

Mrs. Junette Cockerill is chairman of the program. She will be assisted by Mrs. Carol Delfino, Mrs. Dorothy Carrasco, and Mrs. Alice Pringle.

Hope Parish Hall is located at 55 San Fernando Way in Daly City.

SSF Choraliers Will Present Friday Program

Opening a stocking means many things to many people, but to the South San Francisco Community Choraliers this year, it means they are ready to present the children of South San Francisco and neighboring communities with their gift of music.

Director is Patti McClain and the accompanist is Cherilyn Duncan. "Mary Poppin," one of Santa's friends, will present each child in the audience with a remembrance.

"Stockingful of Song" will be presented in the Choral Room of the Orange Avenue Library at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Diane Brahney, Claire D'Amico, Maria DeAnda, Teresa Doupe, Roy and Doreen Marlow, Patricia Enslen, Marlese Gabrielson, Francis Garcia, Juanita Gutierrez, Kay and Ethel Kaufman, Eileen Lester, Fred Maldonado, Irene Mannske, Miss Debbie Osbourne, and special guest, Mrs. Jackie Madden (of San Anselmo), who will portray Mary Poppins, will be among the performers.

Music for the evening program will include a comedy version of "12 Days of Christmas," "Twas the Night Before Christmas," Hasten Now Ye Shepherds, Stars Lead Us Ever On, Over Bethlehem's Town, I Heard the Bells on Christmas Now, No Candle Was There Day, High Hopes, Both Sides and No Fire, and others.

Props were built by Dick McClain, with sound effects by Jeff Stolz. Children's voices heard in "Night Before Christmas" will be from children of the chorus members.

Other December appearances of the chorus include concerts at Marines Memorial, San Francisco; State Farm Agents Banquet at Brentwood Lodge, and community caroling on the steps of City Hall of December 17.

S.S.F. Needy Family Drive Is Underway

The annual Needy Family Christmas Drive, sponsored by the Avalon Concerned Taxpayers (ACT) of South San Francisco is in full swing.

The group's drive last year made Christmas and the days to follow a happy time for two South San Francisco families, one with 11 children and another with three children and no father.

These families received Christmas trees, decorations, gifts and a complete holiday dinner with turkey and all the trimmings.

ACT works with local churches to locate needy families and turn over all donations to the churches to be delivered. Clothing, toys, food, books, gift wrappings, trees, decorations and even Blue Chip stamps will be accepted.

Reserves Join Ecology Drive

Members of a local Navy Reserve unit and the Millbrae Department of Public Works joined in an ecological drive to clean up several Millbrae areas on Saturday.

Naval Reservist Lt. Cmdr. Igor Sharonoff, of Fremont, directed 38 members of the Naval Reserve Surface Division 12-8. It is attached to the San Mateo Naval Training Center. Three men and two dump trucks from the Millbrae Department of Public Works assisted.

Lt. Robert Gohstand reported that eight loads of rubbish were picked up.

Failure at Dump if No Upgrade

Assuming neither South San Francisco nor that city's scavenger company, does anything to upgrade or maintain the controversial Oyster Point dump site failure "of significant size" in a year or two can be expected.

This was the prediction of Philip V. Burkland of the consulting firm of Gribaldo, Jones and Associates to the councilmen at a Wednesday night study session.

Burkland offered an extensive report on the costs, problems and proposals for the site. The soil engineering firm was hired jointly by the city and scavengers to perform a monitoring service because of earlier charges of pollution of the bay. Pollution has since been curtailed.

At the time of the hiring, the Water Quality Control Board (WQCB) was threatening to fine the city at the rate of $6,000 a day unless something was done to prevent seepage.

The city and scavengers agreed to split the estimated $8,000 consultant fee. Burkland pointed out that this cost has been inflated to $11,600. He further asked that the city and scavengers grant another $2,400 to continue monitoring the garbage dump site until the city has made a final determination on what they intend to do at the site.

According to Burkland, the WQCB is thinking in terms of a permanent solution. He said, "The reasonable approach would be to contain it (seepage) through maintenance, particularly since the site is no longer polluting."

Trouble began when agents of the WQCB spotted seepage into the bay from the sanitary fill, even though the material had been compacted and the dump had been closed since 1968.

City Attorney John Noonan was emphatic in pointing out that the entire matter started because of alleged pollution and subsequent "panic news reports" of contamination "to the point where facts didn't count." He said the pollution no longer exists and that the city has maps and tests to prove this. He added that there were several spots where algae have created additional oxygen on the tip of the Peninsula dump site.

Burkland replied that the site is in a "virtual creeping failure state." He said a mild earthquake possibly could break up the sanitary fill site.

The consultant suggested three alternatives for permanent relief and indirectly recommended a fourth of "providing continuous maintenance of a level that prevents contamination and satisfies the proper agencies."

A second possibility would be the removal of an estimated nine-foot deep layer of fill off the Peninsula dump site. Burkland said this would mean moving some 135,000 cubic yards of garbage. He said he had no idea of the cost involved, but figuring conservatively at $6 a cubic yard, he estimated $810,000.

Other problems involved with this possibility is the question of where to dump, not to mention the stench and need for sealed containers to move it.

Burkland said that by unloading part of the fill site the ground underneath can be stabilized. He said "there is a deep seated movement. The entire base is moving laterally and spreading."

The third and final suggestion is the application of a chemical solution to stabilize the fill below the surface.

Contest Turns up Winning Entrees in Field of Chicken Cookery

March 1, 1971 is the deadline for entering the 1971 National Chicken Cooking Contest. Entry forms are available in some grocieries and magazines but also by writing to National Chicken Cooking Contest, Rt. 2, Box 47, Georgetown, Delaware, 19947.

From the recipe entries one finalist from each state plus Washington, D.C. will be selected. These good cooks will be given round trip tickets to Ocean City, Md., where they will prepare their chicken dishes for the panel of judges. Top prize for the best recipe is $10,000. Second prize is $5,000; third prize, $3,000 and fourth prize $2,000. In addition, each finalist gets $100 in cash and a trophy.

Entering recipes must feature broiler-fryer chicken (2 to 3½ pounds, whole, cut up or parts). In addition, the recipe must contain Mazola corn oil or margarine.

Typical of the types of recipes entered in the 23 years of the contest is the Three Herb Chicken, given here, along with Chicken Marengo and Chicken With Mushrooms.

Sauce Adds Interest to Meats, Fish

A versatile spaghetti sauce newly introduced to West Coast markets can add to the enjoyment of beef, lamb, veal, pork, chicken and fish as well as spaghetti, pasta and pizza. The home economists at Ragu's Rochester, N.Y., kitchens suggest these recipes as a means of adding variety to famly meals.

Ireland's Friday Pie

4 cups cooked rice
6 hard cooked eggs
1 15½ oz. jar Ragu Sauce mixed with
½ cup water green pepper or olives for garnish

Place rice in well-greased shallow baking pan, about 12" x 8" x 2½". Lay the hard cooked aggs, quartered, over the top. Pour on the Ragu Spaghetti Sauce and garnish as desired. Bake in 350 degree oven about 25 minutes or until well heated.

Meat Loaf Ragu

1 lb. ground beef
¼ cup minced celery
¼ cup minced onion
¼ tsp. each of thyme and basil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 beaten egg
½ cup soft bread crumbs
salt and pepper
1 15½ oz. jar Ragu Spaghetti Sauce

Brown onion and celery in butter. Add meat, garlic, beaten egg, bread crumbs and seasonings. Bake one hour in moderate (325 degree) oven. Then pour Ragu Spaghetti Sauce over meat loaf and bake 15 minutes longer. Serve with mashed potatoes.

Hot Barbecued Sandwiches

Simmer 2 or 3 tablespoons of sweet pickle relish in Ragu Spaghetti Sauce. Add slices of pot roast or roast beef. Make sandwiches with meat on hamburger buns and pour heated sauce (like gravy) over meat and buns.

For picnics away from home, put sauce and meat slices in a casserole and bake in a moderate oven until very hot. Tie lid on casserole securely. Wrap in newspapers and carry to picnic. Sauce will keep warm several hours.

Baked Fish Creole

1½ lbs. fish fillets or steaks
¼ cup minced green pepper
¼ cup sliced onions
¼ cup sliced mushrooms
1 cup Ragu Spaghetti Sauce

Add peppers, olives and mushrooms to the Ragu Spaghetti Sauce. Pour over fish in baking dish. Bake in 400 degree oven 20 minutes. Serves 5.

Cabbage Rolls

1 medium sized cabbage
1 cup par-cooked rice
½ lb. hamburger
¼ cup minced onion
1 15 oz. jar Ragu Spaghetti Sauce
½ t. salt-dash of pepper
½ t. thyme

Cut core off cabbage. Place cabbage head down in enough boiling water to cover. Boil for ten minutes. Remove from water and peel off leaves.

Mix hamburger with minced onion, rice, salt and pepper. Roll a small amount of meat mixture in each cabbage leaf and secure with toothpicks.

Melt about ¼ inch of bacon drippings in large casserole. When hot, add Ragu Sphagetti Sauce and thyme. Add cabbage rolls and heat thoroughly in moderate oven 60 minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes.

Cranberry Serves Versatile Purposes in Sauce, Meat Dishes and Pie

A search for favorite cranberry recipes in celebration of Massachusetts' Cranberry Harvest Week, recently proclaimed by Francis Sargent, governor of that state, brought forth hundreds of replies. Recipes for cranberry fritters, game hens with cranberry walnut stuffing, cranberry cheesecake, pink cloud pie and cranberry kisses, to name but a few, poured in.

Three of the best chosen by Ocean Spray Kitchens were for Cranberry Chutney, Cranberry Pork Chops and Cheese Meringue Cran-Apple Pie.

Fresh cranberries are in plentiful supply at food stores now. These prize winning recipes may become your favorites too.

CRANBERRY CHUTNEY

- 4 cups (1 pound) fresh cranberries
- 2 green apples, peeled, cored and diced
- 2 navel oranges, thinly sliced and seeded
- 1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
- 1 cup cider vinegar
- ½ cup finely chopped preserved ginger
- ½ cup mixed candied fruit
- 6 whole cloves
- 6 whole allspice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon mustard seed

Combine all ingredients in a large saucepan. Boil gently for 15 minutes or until thickened. Stir toward end of cooking. Delicious served with chicken, duckling, game hens, roast pork, curry, in fruit compote, with fruit fritters, over vanilla ice cream, etc. Very versatile relish that can be served with so many things. Keep stored in a sterilized jar in the refrigerator ready to be served at any time. (Makes about 2 quarts.)

CRANBERRY PORK CHOPS

- 2 pork chops, 1-inch thick
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1 tablespoon flour
- ¼ cup red wine
- ¼ cup water
- ½ teaspoon lemon juice
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 cup fresh cranberry halves
- ½ cup honey
- Grated rind of one small lemon

Brown pork chops on each side in hot oil and sprinkle the flour over them. Pour the red wine, water and lemon juice over all; season to taste with salt and pepper. Remove chops to a greased casserole, large enough so they both lie flat. Stir the liquid in skillet to loosen all brown bits. Pour this over and around chops in casserole. Cover chops with a mixture of the cranberry halves, honey and lemon rind. Cover and cook 1 hour at 350 degrees F. Serve with sauce spooned over them. (Serves 2)

Double this recipe for the family or even triple it for company. This dish makes plenty of gravy for the potatoes, rice or noodles or dumplings you would serve with them.

CHEESE MERINGUE CRAN-APPLE PIE

- 1 package (3 ounces) lemon gelatin
- 1¾ cups boiling water
- 1 can (32 ounces) apple pie filling (2½ cups)
- ½ cup (or more up to 1 cup) halved fresh cranberries
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 9-inch graham cracker pie shell

Meringue:

- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ½ cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese
- ½ cup heavy cream, whipped

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Chill until partially set. Combine pie filling, cranberries, spices and lemon peel. Reserve ¼ cup partially set gelatin for meringue. Stir remaining gelatin into apple mixture and pour into crust. Chill until firm. Fold reserved gelatin, sugar and cheese into whipped cream. Spread mixture over filling. Chill until firm. (Makes one 9-inch pie.)

Port Prune Dessert is a Delight

Port Prune Delight will win over those who aren't too sure about prunes. This elegant dessert starts with prunes that marinate in sweet deep-red port overnight. Then, chilled chunky pineapple and sections of Mandarin oranges are combined in a dessert dish that is topped with the prunes and port. Crown the dish with a large dollop of whipped cream and a scattering of toasted coconut.

Pitted cooked dried prunes are a "natural" for spreads. The prunes puree easily and can be seasoned to your liking. Lemon, allspice and a touch of sugar make tasty Prune Butter to use on toast, English muffins, biscuits and waffles. Prune Butter is also a great filling for coffee cakes, according to Del Monte Kitchens.

PORT PRUNE DELIGHT

- 1 jar (16 oz.) pitted cooked dried prunes, drained
- ¾ cup port
- 1 can (15¼ oz.) pineapple chunks, chilled and drained
- 1 can (11 oz.) Mandarin oranges, chilled and drained
- Sweetened whipped cream
- Toasted shredded coconut

Marinate prunes in port overnight. Combine pineapple and oranges. Divide into 6 serving dishes. Spoon prunes and port over fruits. Top with a dollop of whipped cream and sprinkle with coconut.

6 servings

PRUNE BUTTER

- 1 jar (16 oz.) pitted cooked dried prunes, drained
- 1 Tbsp. sugar
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- ½ tsp. grated lemon rind
- ½ tsp. allspice

Combine all ingredients in blender container. Run on high until smooth and well blended. Serve with butter or cream cheese, if desired. Spread on toast, English muffins or waffles.

Makes 1 cup.

Salad Mold Tasty, Pretty for Buffet

In Party-Pretty Salad golden crushed pineapple, scarlet maraschino cherry halves and roasted almond nuggets are combined in a shimmering mold made with lemon gelatin and whipped cream.

A molded salad makes a lot of sense when you're planning the mend for a buffet party. There's the welcome convenience of getting it made well in advance; and served on a handsome platter or footed cake plate it adds to the visdal appeal of the buffet.

Some stores carry roasted diced almonds in cans. If you don't find them, buy shelled natural (skins on) almonds and dice them by hand or in a jar-type nut chopper. Roast in a 350-degree oven for about 10 minutes in a shallow pan coated with margarine. Remove them when you see that they are turning color; they will continue to darken further out of the oven.

PARTY-PRETTY SALAD

- 1 package (3 oz.) lemon gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 can (8¾ oz.) crushed pineapple
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ cup whipping cream
- ½ cup maraschino cherries, halved
- ¼ cup diced almonds, roasted
- Salad greens

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add undrained pineapple and lemon juice; chill until it begins to thicken. Whip cream until stiff; fold into gelatin mixture. Fold in cherries and almonds. Turn into 4-cup mold and chill until firm. Unmold onto salad greens to serve.

Makes 6 or 7 servings.

Celery Root Easy to Fix

Available October through April, celeriac (celery root) is simple to prepare. Allow 1½ pounds for 4 servings.

High quality celeriac, according to the United States Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, should be a firm, crisp root.

Cook celeriac, unpeeled, in boiling salted water for 40-60 minutes. Peel and serve hot with butter or Hollandaise Sauce. Use it in stews or raw in salads.

Sign Is Warning?

SIGN OF TIMES — It didn't help my Holiday Spirit to read where Daly City planning director John Walker recommended those signs on that controversial smut bar on Geneva Avenue be approved. Walker figures the signs "warn" people about activities inside. It would be a real shocker for folks to drop in for an eyeopener without being forewarned and get an eyefull of what's going on in there, he says. We always thought signs were to attract customers — not to warn them.

IT'S THAT SEASON — When everybody should be doing something for others less fortunate. Operation Santa Claus is underway for the 20th year with many of the same faces showing up to contribute their time and money. Everyone is asked to help this veryworthy affair in what ever way they can. It's a great feeling to help — try it! Call Pete Markovich at the D. C. Chamber of Commerce.

WHY DOES IT take so long for the city to clean debris off the top of storm drains? That windswept storm that dampened the city last week blew leaves in gutters and blocked storm drains everywhere (just about). So what happens? Along comes another storm and the water can't drain off. Fortunately the latter storm wasn't as wet as the first one, otherwise . . .

AND WHILE WE'RE on the subject of cleaning up; there are several lots between Daly City City Hall and Junipero Serra Freeway that STILL haven't been cleaned. The owners are prominent citizens. Perhaps next week I'll let you all in on who they are.

THIS IS MY favorite time of the year. Everyone is happy. People like accountant Al Belotz laugh and joke and do good things for other people (when does he stop for lunch?). And when you ask questions you get happy answers.

Some of the Happy Questions that I have are: Why do people (young and old) continue to use those shopping carts for every imaginable purpose and leave them in every imaginable place for other people to cream with their cars. And howcum stores won't take positive action to curb this.

Why doesn't the County Health Department get off the dime and get out and take a good look at those two stinking dumps — one near the spanking new Gemco store on Junipero Serra, and the other behind the Cypress Hills Golf Course? The last time this happy question was asked there was so much buck passing it looked a game of musical money.

LAST, BUT CERTAINLY not least: Why can't more homeowners' groups hold an annual Yuletide decorations contest as does the Westlake Homeowners' Improvement Association. It brightens the spirit and the city. What with all this tearing down of long-standing holiday traditions it's a real pleasure to see folks take an interest in keeping the Spirit alive in lights. Kudos galore to the WSIA for their part in this contest.

HENRY DOELGER is always news! While the world at large awaits the future of that miniature train stored in Half Moon Bay the internationally known builder is busy looking over plans for a new yacht. The Shadow hears all.

The new ship will be 210 feet long (the biggest around those waters) and will be named . . . Westlake IV???

ALL THE NEWS — Just got a hot news release from Dave Macabee, Daly City's chief of PW (Public Works NOT Prisoners of War). Claims good old Dave: "Owners don't haul trash across town to their vacant property." This statement concerning rubbish disposal in the city of Daly City could change the entire outlook on why empty lots everywhere attract trash. Macabee tells (via the News Release) that people demand to know why the owner doesn't clean up his lot? To which the City Engineer replies: "Who is kidding whom?" After reading the release we might ask the same question of Mr. Macabee. Who IS kidding whom?

WE HAVE BROUGHT the wrath of several Westlake merchants down on our already overburdened shoulders by not mentioning anything about the Westlake Merchants' dinner-dance at the T-Bolt recently. Sorry, gang. It was a truly GREAT dinner, washed down by truly GREAT beverages (paid for by you-know-what-other-paper), with really GREAT TABLE COMPANY (I sat alone with my wife). The entertainment was, as usual, tops with Sal Carson making with the big sounds while Sylvia Gaylord (pause for long sigh) belted out some of this gray-haired Wonder's favorites.

IF YOU'RE STILL WITH US — PW director Macabee dropped another gem regarding that storm that hit many citizens hard. Mr. Macabee, no doubt in complete jest, figures people living in low areas in and around Daly City should move to higher ground the moment they hear a storm is on its way.

"If I owned a piece of property subject to flooding and I read in the paper that a major storm was coming, I wouldn't park my car at the bottom of the swale or put valuable furniture in the garage, where water might damage it," Mr. Macabee reportedly told a newsman.

By golly, that guy is one funny fella. Hope all you folks out there wringing out your sofas, and all you cops who lost your cars at City Hall during the storm, take this engineering tip for all its worth — and that ain't much!

Election Issue Like Volcano

By VIRGIL WILSON

Contention over the best way to elect county supervisors — by district or at large — is somewhat like a volcano. The dispute erupts at irregular intervals with varying intensity.

Right now the volcano seems to be in a dormant stage, but the fires remain hot beneath the surface and a rumbling is heard from time to time.

The next eruption could be brought about by the Citizens Committee for Charter Amendments, apparently still determined to get enough signatures on an initiative petition to force an election on the issue. James M. Dennis, CCCA leader, says the petition drive, which was stalled while committee workers involved themselves in the recent political campaigns, is being revived.

First of a Series

He estimates that he has about half the 20,000-plus signatures he needs.

"I have asked all circulators to turn in what signatures they have so we will know just where we stand. We have no definite target date for completing the drive, but complete it we will," Dennis insists.

The CCCA started out last April with the intention of forcing a vote this year. The drive lagged, however, and, when it became obvious that it would not succeed this year, Dennis asked the supervisors, in vain, to take it upon themselves to place the measures on the ballot in the name of the "democratic process." He probably did not help his cause any when he predicted that, if the board granted the request, the amendments would be approved by the voters "and your secure, safe existence will dissolve."

The CCCA petition, in addition to demanding a vote on the method of electing supervisors, proposes three other amendments to the county charter:

1. To increase the number of supervisor districts from five to seven.

2. To limit supervisors to two consecutive terms, and

3. To make retirement mandatory at 70. Under the election change, candidates would be subject only to the vote in their own districts. At present, one supervisor is elected from each district, but by a county-wide vote.

Another organization with more than a passing interest in the subject is the County Grand Jurors Association, the president of which is Mrs. Ruth Kokjer of Atherton, whose name also appears on the CCCA letterhead.

Of 21 members who responded to a questionnaire, Mrs. Kokjer reports, 13 voted "Yes" on this question: "The 1968 and 1969 grand juries passed resolutions that the election of supervisors should be by district rather than by the county at large. Should we support this recommendation?" Mrs. Kokjer, who was a member of the 1969 jury, says the association has under study the question of what form the support should take.

The 1969 resolution declared that the at-large system "may result in the inability of representatives of minority groups to be elected to this public office and also results in the necessity of expending exorbitant sums of money in campaigning for such office on a county-wide basis.

"State assemblymen are elected on a district basis, as are congressmen, and there would appear to be no adverse effects from this procedure being adopted in San Mateo County. On the contrary, such procedure might very well attract qualified candidates in greater numbers."

This was the offical response of the Board of Supervisors:

"The present method of electing supervisors . . . combines to the greatest possible extent the advantages of district and county-wide representation. Attention to geographic representation is assured by the requirement that there must be one supervisor who resides in each of the five districts. On the other hand, the requirement that each supervisor must be elected by a majority of all voters in the county assures that all of the supervisors look at problems with a country-wide point of view.

"In most cities, including all 18 in San Mateo County and some which cover large areas in other counties, members of city councils are elected at large and not by district. District representation under a system where the supervisor or councilman faces only the voters of his particular district can lead to a narrow, district-oriented approach to problems of local government which demand a broader point of view."

Fragile Freedom

BY JAMES W. HALLEY
Post-Times Columnist

We all know that life about us is changing. We view or read about events that show the raw edges of anarchy on the one hand and suppression on the other. But our own lives are largely peripheral to the main drift of affairs. For most of us, contact with social upheaval is almost subliminal in nature.

Last week my attention was directed to pressures in our society in a slightly different way. The contacts were evanescent, but they were real enough. They occurred in two simple but highly personal happenings that brought my attention to life as it could come to be.

Last Tuesday at 1:00 p.m., Vice President Ky was being introduced to the Commonwealth Club at the Fairmont Hotel. At the same time I was leaving a meeting in the same hotel and headed away from Nob Hill. To leave, I had to pass by the edge of a swelling crowd (it had not yet become a mob).

As I neared the corner of Powell and California a not so young man in army drab, and replete with full hair and beard stood directly in my path. His words, directed at me were angry, excited, threatening, and unprintable. We stood, facing one another, neither of us moving, and I do not know what would have happened if I had responded or tried to go on my way. Finally he stepped to one side and rushed after a line of youths carrying red flags.

Thursday, in the late afternoon I visited San Francisco's Hall of Justice. This drab building has a bank of doors which form part of a brave effort to give architectural dignity to one of the world's dullest structures. The first door I tried was locked and I went to another. All of them, except one, it turned out were locked, and that one was set up as a kind of barricade.

To pass, I had to present identification and was waved on. Some I noticed were briefly detained before admission. It didn't take long, and except for a moment's delay caused me no inconvenience.

It had been a long time since my last visit here and although I had read of security measures the procedure came as a surprise. As a remote and removed observer the idea of protecting public buildings, especially places where criminal cases are tried, has appealed to me ever since the tragedy at the Marin County Courthouse. But as an involved person, an immediate participant, I had a of resentment that my access into a public building could be so summarily treated.

Neither of these incidents will have an impact on the course of human events. They are only one man's brief contacts with the symptoms of the pressures for change and of better and fleeting impression change itself. It was as though I was given a moment's glance through a window — not direct enough or long enough to fully perceive what was on the other side. But the glance was sufficient for me to know that I don't like what's there, and don't want to see anymore.

In being stopped last week, once in the name of the law, and once by an act in defiance of law I was seized with an immediate and desperate sense of the fragility of freedom and of our gradual return to the habits of the brute. What is most upsetting is that we are not being corralled and menaced by some strange and superior species of being, we are doing it to ourselves.

County's Survey Will Be Useful

Decision by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors to authorize a geological survey of the county will be widely approved, although it will come as a surprise to many that such a survey does not already exist. Existence of such a survey might have saved some homes from earth slides and could have prevented the placing of some structures on unstable ground.

Most importantly, it would have been useful in warning, or reassuring nervous Peninsulans who worry about earthquakes.

The extraordinary, if not unique, geographical conformation of this county points out the necessity for a thorough geological survey. Bordered on two sides by water, crested by its own range of hills and mountains, and situated directly across the famous San Andreas fault, it presents an almost bewildering geological and geodetic complex.

The survey authorized by supervisors will be made by the United States Geological Survey, a division of the Department of the Interior. The $32,200 cost will be shared by that agency and the county. It is to cover an analysis of engineering characteristics of local geologic formations and a report on earthquake fault data.

The survey should be highly valuable to the county planning commission and to all other governmental agencies having concerns with the formation and substructure of the lands we live upon.

It goes to the heart of another science we all will be hearing more about — geo-economics focussed down to local levels as well as to the whole earth.

'Tell Me A Story'

The following is directed to parents who are beset by the plaintive cry, "Tell me a story, a Christmas story." Your task has been called a job for supergiants from a planet that has stored 180 million tales.

Mere mortals on the planet earth living within the area called San Mateo County will find in their less than 180 million volume libraries many stories that will staisfy their small listeners.

"TOLD UNDER THE CHRISTMAS TREE" is a longtime favorite with story tellers. Each of its three sections is brimful of goodness. Section one conains miscellaneous poems and stories. Section two has stories and poems about Christmas in various lands, and section three is made up of stories about Hanukkah, the Jewish Festival of Lights.

With Miska Petersham's pictures to illustrate it, "Told Under the Christmas Tree" can be enjoyed by the storyteller as well as his listener.

Robert Haven Schauffler's books, "Christmas (December 25)" and "The Days We Celebrate," provide a rich fund of stories, poems, essays, plays and games that pertain to Yuletide. Some of the selections are by authors of old times who caught the ageless spirit of Christmas; others are by new writers who relate Christmas to present times.

"CHRISTMAS STORIES 'ROUND THE WORKD," edited by Lois Johnson and illustrated by Beth Krush, is a Christmas tour of 14 countries. With the exception of the American story, which tells of Christmas in the early days of this country, the stories are of contemporary life.

Mrs. Johnson prefaces each story — all by known authors of young people's literature — with a description of Christmas customs in each country and introduces each author with a short biographical sketch.

A new edition of James Reeves' "The Christmas Book" is being hailed as a book for the whole family. In it Raymond Briggs' illustrations are found to make an even more delightful book.

If these are not enough to display your finest talents as a story teller, there is: "How Santa Claus Had a Long and Difficult Journey Delivering His Presents," which is a funny, funny book, a delight even to tired fathers; then there are "Merry Christmas" with illustrations by Natasha Simkbovitch, and "Stories to Read at Christmas," edited by Elsie Singmaster.

"Christmas All Year 'Round" is a collection of Christmas stories from the Girl Scout Magazine. There are 25 tales, each full of fun and gaiety, yet each presents a variation of the theme of brotherly love. For years "Christmas All Year 'Round" has been a best seller for fun and entertainment.

LET EVERY FATHER and every mother, and even every big-brother and sister who is called upon to tell a Christmas story to someone or several someones, of the younger set realize that he has hidden talents.

The small fry report that a good story is better than any ol' television show.

Typical Shoplifter? Look Around You

"People must learn they are paying for shoplifting. They can help combat this by alerting a store clerk to a suspected thief," a Daly City retail store manager said.

If you want to see a typical shoplifter take a good long look around you.

It could be anyone from a rundown tramp to an elderly woman dressed in the finest furs.

One nationwide retail chain store with 18,000 shoplifting arrests last year disclosed that the age and social standings of amateur and professional shoplifters included every imaginable type of person.

"Most people steal for greed — not for need," Daly City police Lieut. Charles Terry Jr. explained.

There are more females of all ages arrested for stealing in San Mateo County than males.

The most often used word that continually crops up in talks concerning women shoplifters is "budget."

"They (women) get just so much money for the household budget and perhaps a dress they want just doesn't fit into that budget," liquor store owne Cal Barbato says. "The husband gave them money for, say, bottle but instead of buying the liquor they slip it into their pocket and try to walk out."

The same story is recited in many retail stores.

A veteran of 24 years in the security business for a large national chain store said every excuse imaginable had been used by persons arrested for shoplifting.

The most common being ,"I didn't realize I took anything."

Kleptomaniacs are rare. Only one security officer out of a dozen contacted said he had dealt with a kleptomaniac.

"Her husband called to alert us and to follow her around and later tell him what the cost of the items taken were," the agent said.

The amateur shoplifter steals because he or she doesn't expect to be caught, Terry said.

Unlike his professional counterpart the amateur takes luxury items such as cosmetics, jewelry, and clothing. The professional takes items he can sell.

Juvenile's steal not only for their own personal use of the items, but often simply for "kicks" or to indicate that they want to be accepted by other youths who have previously stolen from stores.

"They don't seem to realize they are committing a serious crime . . . a crime that could mess up their whole lives," the vice-president of a Hillsdale department store chain pointed out.

In the case of a first offense sub-teenager who is caught, police usually turn him over to the parents after a stiff reprimand. The youth is turned over to Hillcrest Youth Guidance Center for action on the second offense.

"A youth caught the first time he steals, and decides not to try it again, is very lucky," a San Francisco security agent said, adding "shoplifting can be the first step in a long road to crime."

A professional caught using such proven theft aids as booster boxes (a specially designed box for stealing), hooks under coats on which to hang garments, or spring loaded sleeve grabs, is charged with felony burglary, and not shoplifting.

Police must be able to prove intent to steal in order to file the burglary charge.

If it can be shown that a shoplifter entered the store "with the intent" to steal items the charge is a felony.

Whatever gimmick today's shoplifter uses police and store security agents have found a method to combat it.

Some parents teach their children how to steal, police said.

In one recent case recorded at the Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City, a small boy was spotted leaving a store with an oversized bag containing three men's suits.

Two men had entered the store earlier, taken the suits into a dressing closet and left them hanging there. The child was sent into take the suits, but an alert store clerk prevented the theft.

"Even parents will bring their child in and point out what they want stolen" another manager said.

Most shoplifters have guts!

Some pick out something and take it to the cashier for a refund — without leaving the store. This is one reason why many stores have tightened their regulations on accepting returned items without a sales slip.

Next: Detection devices.

Jefferson Loses Its Tournament

Westmoor Wins Consolation Game Against Placer

By PETE BARSOCCHINI
Post Correspondent

The Jefferson Indians made a valiant attempt at taking their own tournament but the pounding consistency of the Riordan Crusaders denied Jeff's efforts.

The Crusaders displayed an extremely effective full court press and a most aggressive rebounding crew in dumping the Indians, 62-46, last Saturday night to win the Jefferson Invitational Tournament.

In the consolation contest which preceded the title tiff, Westmoor's Rams were led by their fine guard Brad Quanstrom to an exciting 98-92 decision over Placer High School.

Jefferson and Riordan played a fairly even first half in which the Crusaders took a six point lead but temporarily lost their top scorer and rebounder, Artie Adams, to the bench with foul trouble.

But Riordan came out in the third period with a devastating full-court press which effectively broke up Jeff's slow-down offense and forced the Indians into numerous turnovers. The Crusaders tallied nine straight points in the last two and a half minutes of the third period to go into the final stanza with a 15-point lead.

But Riordan matched Jeff in the fourth period and managed to foul out the Indians number-one scoring and rebounding threat, Ken Smith, midway in the quarter.

It is often said that opposites attract and the results of the opening round of the Jefferson Invitational Tournament held Friday tends to bear out this adage.

The host Jefferson Indians and the Riordan Crusaders each displayed vastly different styles of basketball against their respective opponents that evening.

The Indians depended largely on the brilliant effort turned in by their 6'4" center, Ken Smith, who scored 25 points and controlled the backboards, as they defeated the Placer High School Hillmen, 57-39.

In the first game of the evening the Riordan Crusaders put forth a balanced attack against the Westmoor Rams and coasted to an 80-60 victory.

Westmoor was outscored 25 to nine in the first quarter and never recovered from that initial deficit.

Every player that tallied for the Crusaders did so in double figures as they beat the Rams in each quarter except the final. Riordan's Arthur Adams led all scorers with 22 points.

Brad Quanstom of Westmoor hit for 21 points, 11 of them coming in the final period. Dan Hayes of Riordan also scored 21 points.

The Rams were hurt in the first half by a full court press skillfully applied by the Crusaders. Riordan did not use the press in the second half and Westmoor was able to play the San Francisco team evenly for the final two quarters.

Skyline Cage Team Off to Fine Start, Wins Three of Four

The Skyline College basketball team is off to its finest start of its young two-year history.

Coach Walt Rilliet's Trojans, who competed in the annual Cal Poly Tournament at San Luis Obispo starting Thursday, have now won three out of four starts.

"We have a lot more depth than last year and have been able to use it to our advantage late in the games we have won," noted Rilliet.

Skyline's depth was especially noticeable Saturday night when Willie Redmond came off the bench to rally the locals to a 89-76 victory over Menlo College in the latter's gym.

With the score tied, 52-52, both teams engaged in an altercation which resulted in Skyline captain Dick Young and Menlo scoring ace Steve Wright being ejected.

Redmond came in, Skyline converted both of its technical foul shots, and they never trailed thereafter. Redmond pumped in 10 points. Early in the game, Menlo had enjoyed a 21-6 lead, but it slowly evaporated.

Earl Wilson, Rilliet's 6-8 center, again dominated the boards and led all scorers with 23 points. Wright paced Menlo with 19 markers.

Thinking about "the one that got away" doesn't necessarily stop at the sport of fishing as College of San Mateo basketball coach Bob Pounds found out Thursday.

His Bulldog cagers suffered their third straight loss of the young season to future-rival Skyline Junior College of San Bruno, 93-74, a team made up of athletes that, until last year, would normally have been ticketed for the Hilltop hardcourts.

But Skyline now draws from both the Mid and North Peninsula Leagues and, at least in this season, got the best of the lottery. The game made two definite points for CSM — 1. The Bulldogs must have a big man at center if they hope to win the extremely tough Golden Gate Conference and 2. A fast-break offense is great IF someone can get the defensive rebounds,

With 6-8 Earl Wilson completely dominating the boards at both ends and occasionally throwing in a blocked shot to keep the few fans interested, Skyline was able to control the pace right from the opening tip. Except for Wilson the game was rather uneventful. Neither team was especially hot from the floor (Skyline ended with 39 percent and CSM shot just 33 percent) and turnovers hurt both sides continually.

"We never ran our offense at all in that second half," admitted Pounds after the game. "When we got behind we apparently got rattled and didn't regain our composure soon enough."

Although behind CSM was in contention until halftime. Leading 43-29, Skyline outscored the Bulldogs 10-2 in the opening 90 seconds and it was all over.

THE POST'S SPORTS

Capuchino Cagers Prove Title Merit

By JERRY LITTRELL

The long and the short of it is Capuchino High School has already shown itself to be a team to contend with in the upcoming Mid-Peninsula League race.

Still cautious about his squad's chances, though, is Mustang coach Jimmy Johnson, who watched his charges take their second game without a loss Saturday night at Mills High School, 73-57, over small but quick South San Francisco High School. In the second game of that doubleheader, Woodside's Wildcats suddenly came to life and upended host Mills, 64-48.

"Our shooting has been pretty good for such early season play," Johnson admitted. "We still are making too many silly fouls and mistakes which we'll have to correct before too long."

Friday night Cap downed the tallest team on the Peninsula. Woodside, and showed it could handle little people in beating the Warriors, one of the two smallest teams in San Mateo County. The most positive factor of the SSF victory was the emergence of junior forward Rob Silver as a bonafide varsity starter. Cap has Steve Newberry, who got 19 against SSF, and Don Dowling, who got 21 as he towered six inches over SSF's tallest starter, but were seeking a third front-liner for the rugged conference chase. Silver, who got 19 and appears to be gaining confidence with each minute, is the answer to Johnson's search.

The Warriors, after a frantic and crowd-pleasing pace in beating Mills Friday night, appeared a step slower Saturday and couldn't quite handle the meaty Mustangs. Extremely cold against Cap's zone defense on outside shooting, SSF wasn't having quite as much luck getting inside against Cap either and they never closed closer than 10 points in the second half.

Woodside's Rich Kelley had his finest night of the young season as he blocked seven shots, grabbed 28 rebounds, scored 31 points and added four assists to personally smash Mills. His 6-9 playmate, Mark Dickey, also helped control the boards as junior center Chuck Hextrum again got in early foul trouble and played less than half the game.

It was a bloody battle as Mills' John Bethe left in the fourth period with a split forehead after an accidental elbow pop while Woodside guard Emery Olsen, in his first start, had his glasses broken and his face cut just below the eye in a scramble. Let's hear it for non-contact sports.

Jimmy Johnson's Mustangs made an impressive 1970 debut against lanky Woodside High School and came away with a 65-54 verdict over the Wildcats in Cap's gym. In the first game, South San Francisco High School caught Mills' Vikings completely off guard and registered a frantic 74-61 win.

Capuchino jumped out to a 6-0 lead against the Wildcats, a team that features a seven-foot-plus center in Rich Kelley and a nail-tough 6-6 Don Wilson at forward with a 6-9 junior in reserve, and never looked back. It was nearly embarassing for the losers, Kelley took only five shots all night as Woodside was unable to get the ball inside to the big pivotman.

The Mustangs, meanwhile, rode the deadly outside shooting of forward Steve Newberry, who totaled 29, and the teamwork blocking out of center Don Dowling and Rob Silver to dominate the boards against a team that should be soaring above the backboards Kelley was in foul trouble early and finally sat down with five in the fourth quarter but even he couldn't have helped overcome the persistent 14-17 point lead Cap maintained in the final half.

The problem with South City will be completely different. The Warriors don't have a man above 6-2 as the starting five averages about 5-10. But the run-and-shoot-and-press-and-run tactics of Gene Mullin's five gave Mills fits and forced the Vikings into nearly 30 turnovers.

Veteran guard Gene Mackey spearheaded a slashing full-court press that completely unnerved the much taller Vikings. The only other returning Warrior veteran, forward Mike Young, was the leading scorer with 20 points. The only question remaining now is if SSF can tonight maintain the lightening-paced offense it showed last night.

Mills jumped to a quick 17-8 lead but the Warriors, flailing away at Mills' offensive attempts and diving all over the floor after loose balls, ran off a string of 22 points to two for Mills to take a lead they never relinquished or were in danger of losing.

Crestmoor's Falcons made it two in a row by dumping Serramonte's Regents, 66-39. Good defense and an early lead forced the Regents to play catchup and along the way Serramonte committed 25 turnovers, helping the Crestmoor cause immensely. Ken Bowman paced the scoring with his second straight 17-point night also adding five assists and seven rebounds.

'Most Unpublicized Great Linebacker'

(Last week we described Dave Wilcox as "possibly the most un-glamorous, unpretentious great player in professional football." We told of his early childhood ambition to play football, early athletic days in Oregon, his easy attitude toward publicity, and left the story just as he was about to be drafted into pro football. The conclusion of the two part series on Wilcox follows.)

When he graduated as San Francisco's third draft choice, Wilcox gave up his pursuit of a secondary teaching credential and signed immediately, glad to get a chance to play pro ball. He didn't hold out then and has never since.

But Wilcox negotiates, and negotiates well. If he's pro football's most unpublicized great linebacker, he's not its most underpaid, even though he admits newspaper honors do mean something at contract time. One gets the idea, however, that Wilcox has been able to transcend that relative handicap — and without a business agent!

"Negotiating a contract," he says, "is like horse trading. You tell them what you want, hiking it up over what you really think you can get, and they tell you what they want to give you, lowering their figure more than they know you'll agree to; and then you settle somewhere in between.

"It's not that you don't like the guy you're dealing with, but you've got to protect yourself."

WILCOX KEEPS LEARNING. When he was just off the farm, he'd listen to the owners' classic pitch.

" 'Look,' they'd whisper to you confidentially, 'we're giving you this,' and then they'd dramatically slide you a piece of paper with a figure on it, 'but don't tell anybody, because then we'd have to raise them and there won't be as much for you next time.'

"But they would tell everybody that. Finally, the players wised up. Four or five or so years ago, maybe salaries caused a little dissension in the pros, but that's because nobody really knew what the other guy was getting, and guessing can only cause suspicion. On the 49'ers, for instance, all linebackers now know what they make. We know because we tell each other. It's all out in the open, now."

Wilcox plays footbal like he negotiates — with a tough quiet confidence. He's a rarity in the pros. He broke into one of football's most sensitive positions as a rookie. He got his big break in '64 on a freak happenstance and took advantage of it.

Ed Pine had been the regular 49er left side linebacker, but lost the starting job to Cannonball Cooper in spring workouts and throughout the exhibition season. In the regular season's second game, Cooper hurt his knee (he never recovered), and Pine took over again. At the time, Wilcox was playing behind middle linebacker Matt Hazeltine (another vastly underrated player). With Cooper's injury, Wilcox began backing both Pine and Hazeltine. The next week against St. Louis, Pine got a lime burn when groundskeepers lined the field with lime rather than chalk, and Wilcox broke in. Pine couldn't play at all the following Sunday against the Bears, Wilcox had a good game, and that was it. Pine never got back in the starting lineup.

IT WASN'T, HOWEVER, as easy as Wilcox would have anyone believe. He had been primarily on end, going both ways, until his senior year at Oregon, when he had switched to guard, also going both ways. When he graduated he weighed 225 pounds distributed over a 6-2½ frame, and had a chronically bad shoulder. He was told by the 49ers that he wasn't hefty or sound enough in the upper body, so he began working out with weights, mainly to strengthen the shoulder; a program he must continually maintain.

When he reported to the 49ers Wilcox was up to 230 (he now plays comfortably at 237) and his shoulder was sound enough so that, though it still bothers him, he'd never missed a regular season game because of it until early this year.

In pro football," he says, "you have to play hurt, because if you don't somebody else takes your place and you go home without a check. You can't let anybody else get a chance, so you play. I don't think I've ever heard of a professional football player who ever trotted onto a field on a Sunday afternoon who wasn't hurting someplace. That's part of the game."

Wilcox may be the youngest old reliable in the game. Not only hasn't he hardly ever missed a league game—and very few plays — but a San Francisco sports writer who's covered the 49ers since Wilcox's rookie year, says that he recalls Dave playing only one bad game, that one against Cleveland in 1968.

Unlike some NFL players, Wilcox refuses to throw himself into a pile when a tackle has already been secured, in order to come up with a possible tackle assist in the statistics.

"GUYS WHO DO THAT AREN'T AROUND very long," he says. "They're not the real fine athletes. They're insecure. They're getting where they were supposed to have been — but late. They think they're conning somebody. Maybe they fool some of the fans and writers, but not the real pros, not the coaches. They know who's playing genuinely well, and that's all I care about."

It's been 14 years since Wilcox put his first pair of Vale High shoulder pads on backwards, and football is still his abiding interest. Although he's spent a little time doing PR work for a glass company and as a sporting goods salesman, he spends most of his off season like any red-blooded athletic American throwback — hunting and fishing (in Eastern Oregon) and, as he puts it, "dinking around a little bit" at his health club, a hometown partnership in downtown Eugene.

Wilcox detests planning things, from days off to "retirement" ("I just like to get up in the morning and see what happens"), but coaching on the college (he helped at Oregon one spring) or pro level is a posibility, along with a farm or ranch, one he could relax on and have others work.

Whatever the distant future — and to Wilcox, that could mean next spring — holds in store, San Francisco's premier linebacker isn't about to allow it to interfere with his near future. Dave Wilcox may be one of the last of a vanishing breed, a professional athlete who believes in wearing only one hat. In this case, a football helmet.

Oceana High Nips Aragon Cagers, 57-56

Take equal personnel, equal miseries, equal size and add that one dash of irony and you get what came out Wednesday in Pacifica — one whale of a basketball game.

Both Oceana and Aragon High Schools are expected to finish in the middle somewhere of their respective leagues but both put on a great display before Oceana emerged with a heart-stopping 57-56 overtime victory.

Oceana was without the services of top guard Ernie Ribera, out for the year with a knee operation, while Aragon played without its top guard, Bill Lewis, out for another few days with an ankle injury.

Were it not for an oversight on the part of the official scorer the two squads might still be playing. With four minutes left in the game Aragon went to the foul line for a free throw. The officials and the official book had a lack of communication somewhere and, after the first shot was hit, Oceana got possession out of bounds. Before coach Eddie Diaz could point out the one-plus-one situation which should have awarded a bonus free throw, the clock had started and the attempt nullified.

Aragon was constantly rattled by the harassing zone press of the Sharks and Oceana's surprising fast break. The loss overshadowed a great individual performance by Kurt Peterson who had 34 points.

Glen Breede's layin and a free throw by Rich Johnston were the extra-period points Oceana needed for the win. Breede led the balanced attack with 16, including Oceana's last two buckets.

'Boataloon' Palace Show Feature

Skyboat, Other Craft Due at January Event

By GARRY NIVER

The cows will never recover from it .

Here, in their own emporium for the commemoration of cowhood, a giant flying udder to end all udders.

The Daly City Cow Palace will transform into some kind of a freak show for nautilists January 7 when the twenty-ninth renewal of the San Francisco National Sports and Boat Show opens a ten-day run.

And highlighting the show this year is a giant udder-like body, known as the "Boataloon," which will preside over the mammoth show.

The "Boataloon," or skyboat, is a round fiberglass boat attached to a rubberized plastic 48-foot high balloon which enables it to travel on water or in air.

"The skyboat is ideal for people who want to change their lakes without fighting people," quipped show Impressario Tom Rooney.

Designed by Milwaukee industrial engineer Brooks Stevens, the same man who invented last year's Guitar Boat, the skyboat is powered by a 30 horsepower outboard motor which acts as a fan when airborn.

"The Cow Palace is the only structure in the nation large enough and tall enough to permit the boataloon to rove around," noted Rooney.

The show, which attracted a record 385,000 during a ten-day run last year, is expected to top all attendance standards this semester according to Rooney.

"We have had to turn exhibitors away this year, and that really hurts," revealed Rooney. "Our space has been sold out since October," he added.

Outside of the New York Show, which gets second billing as far as the 1971 line of products are concerned, San Francisco is the largest and first boat show of the season.

Also making its debut in this year's show is the "Juke Box" boat, wild striped craft for those who love to dance but hate to leave the water.

The pontoon boat has the world's largest juke box on it and combines a rock concert with a light show. The pulsating rock show, which can hold four dancers, is powered by a 35 horsepower motor.

Of interest to the family campers is the latest line in inflated vacation cabins. Rooney has several unusual creations signed up, including a 30-foot high teepee with a geodesic bubble dome which is large enough to sleep six people but portable enough to be carried in a car when deflated.

Queen ship of this year's show is a 50-foot houseboat, built by Holiday Mansions. "Our boat display includes everything from the mammoth houseboat to tiny inflatable models which can be carried in a car trunk," Rooney revealed.

In addition, there will be the usual Vacationland Hall featuring the latest equipment in hunting, fishing, and camping.

Among the major boat manufacturers exhibiting products are Uniflite, Tollycraft, Bertram, Trojan, Columbia, Newport, Shock, Catalina, Venture, Dorsett, Larson, Owens, Valco, and Sea Ray.

"And, we'll have many more innnovations which won't be revealed until the show opens," quoted Rooney.

SSF's Young Skyline Cage Team Captain

Dick Young, former South San Francisco cager, has been elected captain of the 1970-71 Skyline College basketball team.

A sophomore forward, Young was the Trojan's leading scorer last season.

In making the announcement, Coach Walt Rilliet said he expected Young to be "a fine team representative" and looked forward to having him as "not only as a captain but as floor leader."

Rilliet also announced that sophomore Letter winner, Dan Coffey, would be lost to the team for an indefinite period due to what has been diagnosed by doctors as a slipped disc in his back.

"The loss of Coffey will be a serious one to us. His sophomore experience would have come in handy as we see the various defenses that junior college teams in the Northern colleges will play against us," Rilliet said.

Coffey was the fifth leading scorer on Skyline's first team last year and had been counted on to give the Trojans additional bench strength.

New Moulin Rouge For Delicate French Cuisine

A bit of Paris can now be found in San Carlos, as an elegant French restaurant, the Moulin Rouge, recently opened for business. Owned by Paul Starnaud, a sophisticated gentleman who has created several successful restaurants in Canada, the Moulin Rouge promises to be a welcome haven for diners who appreciate delicate French cuisine. House specialties include such palate delights as Frog Legs, Lobster Tails and Scampi. Menu prices are moderate, with dinners ranging from $2.95 to $14.50 for Chateaubriand for Two. The atmosphere is accented with a French flair, including the tastefully decorated walls and even the low background music. Open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 12 p.m. . . . The Shirley Claire Trio entertains for dinner-dancing Mondays through Saturdays from 9:30 p.m. in the plush Bon Vivant supperclub of the Cabana Hyatt House, Palo Alto. Shirley Claire, former singer and showgirl with the famed Earl Carroll Follies in Hollywood, includes songs of yesterday and today in her repertoire of standards, ballads and blues. Patti and Max, a lively musical duo, offer "after-five" music for cocktail entertainment from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. daily.

Not only did Stanford's Jim Plunkett win the coveted Heisman Trophy, but the All-American quarterback was presented with a free dinner at the House of Troy. Each month, restaurant Owner Sal Campagna chooses a local person who has accomplished something outstanding and presents him with a fine dinner, compliments of the house. Plunkett, who won for the month of November will probably have to wait to enjoy his meal until January, when he and his teammates return from a New Year's Day engagement in Pasadena . . . Redwood City's Oyster Shell is now open on Sundays serving a wide variety of dinners from 4 p.m. Owner Ray Alves recently added Italian cuisine to his menu. Diners now have a choice of either seafood or Italian dishes. For lunch, try the Martini-Burger (a hamburger and a drink) . . . Another gala party (35 strong) was held last Saturday night at Bruno's in downtown San Mateo. It is the policy of owner and chef Bruno Fava to provide groups with special prices. There are excellent facilities for any type of Holiday entertaining, with gatherings of up to 60 persons being easily accommodated.

Sal Campagna

Rudy Isch, executive chef at the El Rancho restaurant, Millbrae, and his crew will be busy Christmas morning preparing complete turkey dinners for take-out service. A fresh 16 pound bird, stuffed with dressing and served with all the trimmings is on the Holiday agenda . . . Brotherly Love, a pop musical group now performing at the Beach House, first met owner Frank Martinelli when he owned a teenage night club called The Chalet. Then known as the Rivera Brothers Ltd., they were the winners in a battle of the bands contest. Now rated as one of the top groups on the West Coast, they have played all the top niteries in the Bay Area . . . Almost 60 members of the Volkswagen Club met for a Saturday night gathering in South San Francisco. The site was the International Inn restaurant, where Manager Doug Young's facility hosted the club's annual dinner-dance . . . Escabeche (cooked pickled fish, Peruvian style) is one of the mouth-watering specialties of the house at Frank Torres' Beach restaurant in Montara. Frank and Fannie have always been perfectionists, but when it comes to their South American dishes, they cannot be beaten by anyone this side of Lima.

Rudy Isch

The Benjamin Franklin Hotel set an all-time record for serving Thanksgiving dinners this year. And it's no wonder, what with Executive Chef Tom Delano overseeing operations in the Greenwillow Room. The luncheon and dinner menu here is well worth your dining attention . . . One of the many happy dining groups enjoying dinner at Scotty Campbell's Sunday evening included prominent political figure Williams Royer, who was engrossed in conversation with guest Willie Mays, another "giant" in the baseball world . . . Going to Reno? A fun way is the Golden Tours way. For $10.50 you depart from Ed's Smoke Shop in San Carlos at 10 a.m. or 7 P.M. daily (except Sunday) for John Ascuaga's Nugget, an exciting fun spa in Sparks, Nevada, and receive a $7 refund ($5 in cash and $2 in food and drink) as a traveler's bonus . . . Mrs. Elaine Eichinson calls our attention to the cordial personality and great "bar-manship" of "Gordy" Riddeaugh, of the Stuart Anderson's Black Angus Steak House in San Mateo. "He is certainly very personable and contributes greatly to enhance the atmosphere of what is already a very comfortable and relaxing dinner house on the Peninsula," reports Mrs. Etchison . . . Harry Rice, manager of San Francisco's Embassy Theater, and his wife, Flo, back in San Fran after a month in Las Vegas and Palm Springs, went post haste to Doros for dinner.

It was his twenty-fourth wedding anniversary, and he wanted to celebrate — instead of working. To his surprise, he was greeted by his wife, Pat, and his children and a host of friends assembled by Lew, who hosted a big dinner party in the private dining room. Lew added frosting to the cake by working George's shift for him.

CD Contracts by San Bruno and South SF

Both South San Francisco and San Bruno have entered into agreements with the University of Southern California Institute for Civil Defense and Disaster Administration (ICDDA).

The agreements commit the cities to a concept of long-range disaster response system development. During the next year the cities will conduct three Emergency Operations Simulation Training (EOST) exercises. Both cities recently completed similar exercises.

The ICDDA will designate a professional staff member to help coordinate training exercises and arrange for other training specialists to come to cities. These specialists will train city staff in leadership skills, managing executive time, team building, communications and emergency planning and operations.

There is no cost, other than time, for this federally-funded program.

Most Students In JC District Local Last Year

Most students at the three College of San Mateo Junior College District campuses last year were local residents, according to Chancellor Clifford G. Erickson.

Total enrollment at College of San Mateo, Canada and Skyline campuses exceeded 25,000, Erickson said.

Of the other 2½ per cent, 250 were from foreign countries, 99 were out of state and the remainder from other junior colleges with which the local district has cost-billing agreements.

Food Collected by D.C. Girls

Daly City Camp Fire Girls will take cans of food for needy families to their December 12 Christmas party.

Girls from the young Blue Birds through Junior high and Camp Fire have earned their own money with which to purchase the variety of canned goods, according to Mrs. Richard Freund of Daly City, Camp Fire officer.

New Bank

An open house at Daly City's new 2434 Junipero Serra Boulevard Wells Fargo Bank will be held from 1-5 p.m., December 12, according to Manager Wade Hampton.

Cooky Baking Fun At Christmas-time

Good morning, good cooks.

Cookie baking is fun at any time of the year, but the best cookie baking time is Christmas. Not only do we have the pleasure of mixing and baking the cookies, with that lovely spicy, sweet aroma wafting through the house, but we get the extra bonus of sharing our creations with family and friends.

SUGAR 'N' SPICE COOKIES

1 cup sugar
¾ cups shortening
1 egg
¼ cup dark molasses
2 cups sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon ginger

Cream together the cup sugar and three-fourths cup shortening. Add the egg and fourth cup molasses. Mix thoroughly.

Sift together the two cups sifted flour, fourth teaspoon salt, two teaspoons soda, one teaspoon cinnamon and fourth teaspoon each cloves and ginger. Add to the creamed mixture and blend thoroughly.

Chill in refrigerator.

Shape into small balls and space on lightly greased cookie sheet.

Bake in 375-degree oven, 15 to 20 minutes.

Two recipes for bar cookies, one rich with chocolate and butterscotch topping and the other a rich shortbread type cookie with cinnamon and sugar topping.

MELT AWAY BARS

1 egg, separated
2 cups all purpose flour
1 cup sugar
1 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped walnuts
½ cup each semi-sweet chocolate bits and butterscotch bits.

In large mixer bowl combine egg yolk with the two cups flour, 1 cup sugar, one cup butter, one teaspoon vanilla. Blend well at low speed. Stir in one-half cup walnuts, saving rest for later.

Spread in ungreased 15x10-inch jelly roll pan. Beat the egg white until frothy; spread over bars. Sprinkle with remaining walnuts.

Bake in 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle the half cup each chocolate and butterscotch bits over hot bars. Let stand 5 minutes; spread to form marble frosting. Cool slightly and cut into bars.

CINNAMON SANDIES

2 cubes butter
1 cup powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups plus 2 tablespoons flour, sifted
¼ teaspoon salt
Cinnamon and sugar

Combine the two cubes butter with the one cup powdered sugar and cream until light and fluffy. Add the teaspoon vanilla. Sift together the 2½ cups plus 2 tablespoons flour and fourth teaspoon salt. Mix into creamed mixture.

Pat dough into ungreased 8-inch square pans. Sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar and bake in 300-degree oven about 40 minutes or until golden brown. Cut into squares or diamond shapes while still warm.

These drop cookies are just right for Christmas with crisp cereal giving them a bit of crunch and maraschino cherries adding color and an interesting flavor.

QUICK CHERRY COOKIES

1 cup brown sugar
1 cup shortening
1 egg
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons milk
½ cup chopped nuts
½ cup coconut
½ cup cut-up maraschino cherries
2 cups rice krispies

Cream together the cup each brown sugar and shortening. Add the egg and blend well.

Sift together the two cups flour, half teaspoon each soda and salt. Add to the creamed mixture along with the one teaspoon vanilla and two tablespoons milk.

Stir in the half cup each nuts, coconut and cut-up maraschino cherries and the two cups rice cereal.

Drop by teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in 375-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes, or until nicely browned. Mekes about 5 dozen.

An assortment of cookies just has to have one rich chocolate type to make it complete, don't you think? These cookies are so rich and chocolate-y that they almost move over into the candy department.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

The dirty furnace racket becomes active with the first cold weather.

The phony inspector, often posing as a representative of a government or civic agency and wearing a badge, prefers to call in the daytime when the man of the house is not present. He goes door to door, offering a free furnace inspection, often mentioning names of the neighbors he has given the service to.

The inspection is free — but, what follows often is tragic. The furnace invariably is found to be in "dangerous shape." Furnaces have been entirely dismantled in the racketeer's search for "hazardous conditions" requiring purchase of a new one.

Senior citizens are vulnerable to this type of a racket and often are pressured into signing a contract for an over-priced furnace.

Relatives and neighbors of older persons should caution them of this racket. Young parents also are susceptible to the warnings of dangerous fumes and possibilities of fire when told that the dangerous furnace cannot be repaired. They quickly sign a contract for a new furnance.

There can be a possibility that your furnace really may need repairs before winter. Still, do not be rushed into a hasty decision by an "inspector" who suddenly appears at your door.

Shop for reliable companies, get two or three estimates, do not sign a contract until you have read and thoroughly understand it, and if installation of a new furnance requires alterations to your home, obtain a permit. Some cities require a permit for all new work done.

Safecracking Attempt Fails

Bungling burglars failed to cut their way into a supermarket safe last Wednesday in the Bayshore District of Daly City.

Actually the Safeway store is in San Francisco. However a small corner of the large store juts into Daly City. And that's where the safe was located.

The burglars, using acetylene torches, first cut their way through a metal loading dock door in San Francisco and carried their heavy equipment through the store into the rear office.

Police estimate they worked on the safe for more than an hour before giving up. Attempts to burn off the hinges and dial failed.

"They were lousy burglars and the safe was good," police Lieutenant Tom Culley said.

Family Dinner at Westside

The Westside Baptist Church, 390 Inverness Drive, Pacifica, will hold a family pot-luck dinner at 6:30 p.m. today.

The evening will include fellowship, carol singing, and a film strip, "The Users."

Then there will be some presentations by the women and youth of the church. Nursery care during this evening program will be provided.

Sunday, at the 10:55 a.m. Worship Hour service, Pastor David Donnelly will speak on the topic of "he Will Convict," another in the series of messages on the person and work of the Holy Spirit.

During the adult worship hour, a children's church is conducted for boys and girls four through seven years of age. Nursery care is maintained for babies and toddlers during morning services.

"Made in Japan," a newly produced color film strip by the Baptist General Conference Foreign Mission Board, will be shown. In keeping with the missions theme, girls from the Junior High GMG will give profiles of conference missionaries in Japan and several of the national pastors.

The Sunday evening services at Westside are family styled.

Saturday morning at 10 the second practice for the upcoming annual Sunday school Christmas program will be held.

Prowler at Home

About 9 p.m. December 1, a San Bruno housewife watching television heard a car stop outside her ome.

She paid no attention thinking it was her husband returning home. Then she heard sounds coming from the master bedroom. She became alarmed.

On her way to investigate the noise she saw a young man climbing out the bathroom window. She screamed. He dropped some of his loot but got away.

San Bruno police report the young thief had dropped a pair of binoculars and a set of lingerie, selected from various bureau drawers.
